Wilmington honors Private First Class John F. Landry

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The town paid tribute on Tuesday afternoon to one of its courageous sons who made the ultimate sacrifice.

Private First Class John F. Landry, Jr. was killed in Iraq on March 17th when his unit was hit by an improvised explosive device during combat operations near Baghdad. An outstanding student and athlete at Lowell Catholic, John enlisted in the Army in September 2005, just months after his high school graduation.

"Growing up, he was a military history buff," recalled his father, John Landry, Sr. "You could ask him anything - he knew all about military battles from World War II and other wars."

John, Jr. spent several of his earliest years in Wilmington, before the family moved to Lowell. His family roots remain in Wilmington, and it was in Wilmington that his family wanted him to remain.

"He was all about 'team,'" his father continued. "Had Johnny lived, he would definitely have ended up on a team - the FBI or the DEA, some type of law enforcement team. That's what he wanted to do."

The family was fortunate to

Thanks to the generosity of the Freemasons, the teens at the Tewksbury Youth Center have a brand new bumper pool table. John Appleby, Family Life Chairman of the Valley of Lowell Scottish Rite Freemasons recently presented a check for $600 for the purchase of the bumper pool table to Recreation Department Director Roy Patterson. A few of the boys visiting the center that day were: Connor Sullivan, Timmy Patterson and Cam Cathcart.

Wilmington Family Counseling presents...

'Raising Resilient Teens' workshop

WILMINGTON - "Raising Resilient Teens" is a parenting workshop being offered at the Wilmington Middle School on Mondays, April 2 and 9, from 7:00 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. It is sponsored by the Wilmington Family Counseling Service, Inc., the Wilmington Public Schools, and the Wilmington Middle School PAC.

Being resilient means being able to cope with challenges, believing in one's ability to succeed in spite of obstacles, seeing mistakes as learning experiences, having a realistic picture of one's capabilities, having the ability to see the situation from someone else's point of view, and solving problems rather than blaming oneself or others.

Questions addressed will be:
• Do you play a negative "broken record" in your attempts to change your teen's behavior?
• Whose "solutions" fix your teen's problems?
• When you have a "talk" with your teen, who is doing the talking and who is doing the listening?

• How many times have you told your teen to "try harder" as a way to improve grades or play sports better?
Parents may strive to be resilient adults themselves and want to raise resilient teens. In spite of their intentions, however, they may unknowingly undermine that goal or do little to promote it. At this workshop each session will have thought-provoking exercises that will suggest new ideas and strategies to increase parents own resilience which then can be passed on to their teens.

The workshop will be led by Carol M. Golub, Ph.D., Executive Director of the Wilmington Family Counseling Service, Inc., for the past 38 years and previously on the faculty of Northeastern University, Wheelock College, and Salem State College.

QUICK! FILE ONLINE, OR FILE FOR AN EXTENSION

April 15 is creeping up on us. Have you filed your tax return? You may be able to file on line for free. Some 70 percent of taxpayers—those with adjusted gross incomes under $52,000—are eligible to file through the Internal Revenue Service's Free File Program. The return goes through faster, and if you're expecting a refund, that will happen faster, too, especially if you have the refund direct-deposited to your bank account.

Not ready to file? You can get an automatic filing extension period of six months, longer than in the past. But you must pay the final tax you will owe by this month, even if the return isn't ready, to avoid a late payment penalty and interest. You need to file IRS Form 4868 by April 16.

Remember that you can open an IRA or a Roth IRA and make a contribution as late as April 16. You can also make a separate contribution for a spousal IRA.

Hurry-get your taxes squared away. We can still help at:

Letters to the editor

Thanks from the Boosters

Dear Editor
On Sunday, March 25th, the Wilmington Youth Hockey Boosters Club hosted a fundraiser at Giggles on Rt 1. Nearly 120 people from WYH and their friends attended. With the help of many local businesses, the event raised $2,500.

The Boosters would like to thank the people and businesses that donated items to the raffle table: 99 Restaurant, Applebee's, Cooke's, Custom Stitch, Dunkin Donuts, Elegant Touch Nails, Flaherty's Jewelers, Frito-Lay, J & L Painting, Kathie Smith, Lucci's, North Shore Baseball, Michele Capistran, NEUCO, Piccadilly Pub, Pier Fish Co.-The Barry Family, Platinum Door, Royal Dynasty, Sam Adams Beer, Shaw's Supermarket, Stephen Wright, Stop & Shop, and Tewksbury Country Club.

The Boosters plan to use the funds raised to recognize the players during the end of the season awards night and to honor a graduating senior who has played in WYH with a $500 scholarship. The Boosters fundraise all season to be able to recognize and support the accomplishments of teams and players. They also assist the organization with equipment needs as funds allow.

The Boosters also thank the many people who attended the event to support our organization. The Boosters and WYH plan to organize other fundraising events so check out the website at www.wilmingtonyouthhockey.org <<http://www.wilmingtonyouthhockey.org>>.

Sincerely,

A vote for Stronach

Dear Editor:
I have been so fortunate to have had Anne Marie Stronach as a neighbor for many years and I wholeheartedly support her in her race for Tewksbury Selectman. The April 14th election is a wonderful opportunity for the residents of Tewksbury to vote for Anne Marie to become their neighbor as well.

Anne Marie's determination to make Tewksbury a better town for all has been proven through her dedication and involvement in U25 and many other initiatives to assure the best education for the children of our town.

Anne Marie Stronach demonstrates a tremendous commitment to all Tewksbury residents. She is determined to reduce the property tax burden for homeowners so that both the elderly and the young people of our town can afford to stay and live in our town, just as her husband Rick has done. Anne Marie's dedication to senior citizens is just as powerful. She is very aware of issues concerning seniors from her own experiences with her aging parents, as well as Rick's parents. One of Anne Marie's goals as Selectman is to bring more town-friendly industry to Tewksbury to help reduce the tax burden for Tewksbury residents.

Anne Marie Stronach has proven management skills that she will bring to the people of Tewksbury. Director of Food Services for the Lawrence Public School District, Anne Marie is responsible for a $5 million dollar budget and oversees 125 employees. The fiscal responsibility that she demonstrates in her leadership role will be a tremendous asset to the Town of Tewksbury.

Anne Marie Stronach is the neighbor who brings homemade soup to her sick neighbors; she is the one who shovels their driveways when they need help. Anne Marie is a dynamic, caring, committed person whose boundless energy helps her to go out of her way for people. Cast one of your two Selectman votes for Anne Marie Stronach. She is a neighbor who brings tremendous energy, proven skills, and a passionate determination to make Tewksbury a better place for all of us as neighbors. Tewksbury will be a better town with Anne Marie Stronach guiding it. She is dedicated to all Tewksbury residents. Vote for Anne Marie Stronach! Anne Marie Stronach is the neighbor the Town of Tewksbury needs to call on for Selectman on April 14.

Thank you,
Tina Blanchet
Tewksbury

From Hill to Hill

(editor's note: the following letter was written to Rep. James Miceli from Senator Edward Kennedy. It is being published here with the permission of Rep. Miceli.)

Dear Jim:
Thank you for your recent correspondence expressing your concern about veterans' issues. I agree that our veterans deserve medical facilities and care that match their enormous sacrifices, and so do our soldiers.

Unfortunately, we have recently learned that this administration was not prepared or able to provide adequate care for our servicemen and women wounded in Afghanistan and Iraq. The conditions at Walter Reed Army Hospital are outrageous and inexcusable, and sadly, the problem exists at other facilities throughout the country. The Administration must be held accountable for the care of our troops, and these problems must be corrected immediately. The Senate Armed Services Committee will seek solutions to the problems at Walter Reed and other facilities, and we'll do our best to fulfill our commitment to our soldiers and veterans and their families.

I agree that we must increase the Veterans Administration's budget to provide full funding for veterans and their families.

We owe an enormous debt to the courageous men and women who serve our nation so well. We can't ignore their needs when they come home from war. I strongly oppose proposals to impose higher costs on veterans seeking prescription drugs or medical care. I will also do all I can to support mental health programs for our returning soldiers and veterans.

I also share your serious concerns about the possible consolidation of any VA facilities in Massachusetts. As you may know, I have fought hard in order to maintain accessible care for our veterans. I recognize that the current facilities need some updating, but consolidating the services is not the answer, since it will cause significant disruption and make it much more difficult for large numbers of veterans to obtain effective care.

We all have a solemn responsibility to do the best possible job of protecting the rights of those who sacrifice so much to serve our country, and I look forward to working with you to ensure that Massachusetts' veterans receive the excellent care they deserve.

With respect and appreciation,
Sincerely,
Edward M. Kennedy

Czech Yourself

by Tina Fabiano

For the past month, a plague has overtaken my living space at the Kolej Komenskeho. It comes lurking in during the wee hours of the night and forces the victim to jolt upright in bed like a crazed lunatic and run straight for the bathroom, plowing through any friend, foe, or fowl in his or her path. We've all suffered from the stomach flu here, and of all the anguish it has caused me, the worst side effect has been my newfound dislike of Czech food.

I don't know what it is, but I can't eat it anymore. Perhaps my distaste stems from the fact that the last thing I ate before I became another Kolej flu casualty was a hearty dish of beef goulash, bread dumplings, and a fruit topped pancake. I spent the following three days blaming everything under the Czech cuisine sun on my ailment and vowed to avoid all things meaty, saucy, and heavy for at least three weeks. Now that I can't look at goulash, what on earth am I supposed to sustain myself with? The answer is simple and makes my heart, and stomach, sing just thinking about it.

Earlier in the semester, my friends and I birthed a weekly event that put us on par with Dice-K, Oprah, and maybe even Santa Claus. We dubbed Thursday evenings Potluck night and since then, we've carved our names into the hall of legends at the Kolej.

Potluck began as a small gathering of eight people and a few amateur dishes of pasta, taco salad, grilled cheese, pepperoni on crackers, and one overachiever's delicious contribution of apple yogurt salad. Since we do not have a stove and are only allotted a hot plate, getting creative is a must. We stared at the delicacies (which look grim in retrospect) and dove into the mound of culinary creations as if it were a lone zebra in the midst of a pack of starving lions.

I always like when no words are uttered during a meal. It pleases me when the only exchanges are grunts and eye movements in the direction of the dish that needs to be passed down the line of salivating people. We sat, satisfied and halfway full, and agreed that we needed to do this again and soon. Little did we know what kind of monster we had created.

Word of Potluck Thursdays ignited a sparking interest so fierce that it consumed our every thought, conversation, and impending grocery store visit. What should I make? What are you making? What is he making? All these questions began to brew causing silent competitions over what to make... and it was only Friday! We still had six days to go!

When Thursday arrived, Potluck buzz abounded all day, but no one in my apartment was aware of how big this buzz was until 20 people arrived at our door with plates, forks, and one scrumptious dish in hand. We lined the window sills with food and placed anything that needed heating on the radiator. Then, the madness ensued.

The array of food providers can be categorized into different levels. At the base are the people who run to the corner store five minutes before Potluck and buy a loaf of bread just as their ticket in. Second on our Potluck Pyramid are those who whip up a mishmash of peanut butter and jelly or Nutella sandwiches since hot plate cooking is still something to fear. Third are those who can stir-fry anything from a chicken to a Snickers bar. And at the peak of our pyramid stands the true iron chefs of the Kolej: the gifted ones who can operate the lone hot plate with more panache than Wolfgang Puck and turn an onion into a four course meal. These people are treated like gods among study abroad students. Seeing these people walk down the hall, steaming pot in hand, is like seeing your mother with a flying saucer sized plate of your favorite food.

To any outsider, the inside of our living space looks like a soup kitchen designed for wildebeests. There are those who hover like vultures near the food, those who are social and fill up their plates and sit on the floor to chat, and those who after one serving have had enough homemade goodness and need to lie down somewhere until the food coma wears off. As I stood at the end of the line stuffing my face with chicken nachos, I noted that I had never seen happier eaters anywhere. At the end of each Potluck we sit with hands resting on bloated stomachs discussing what our favorite meal was, bowing at the feet of the top chefs of the evening, and talking about what we're bringing next week, of course.

So while I'm on my hiatus from Czech gastronomy, Thursday night Potluck will fill my goulash void, for as long as there's a heavy slab of saucy beef tempting me somewhere, there's an apple yogurt salad and chicken nachos to counteract it all.

Why Tewksbury needs Sean Sullivan for a Selectman

Re: Cell Tower
The only thing South Tewksbury residents and tax payers thought they could do about the fiasco tower placed in front of the beautiful Fire Station, destroying Muster Park and facing the front of the Methodist Church on the corner of Main and South Street, Route 38, was to be angry at town officials who thoughtlessly OK'd the project, giving no consideration to neighborhood or all the people traveling on Main Street, viewing its ugliness.

Sean Sullivan lives in South Tewksbury and is a man of administrative experience. He stepped forward with advice to us on how we could turn rage into something positive and let our voices be heard by the Town leaders.

He suggested we do the following to address the problem on Main Street and this is what we did.

300 voters signed for a one year moratorium, to review cell tower locations in town.

875 plus voters signed a petition requesting that the Selectmen and Planning Board review the mistake that took place in South Tewksbury. (This part of Town is without representation) Hoping that we will be included in keeping the Character of the Town that we too could be proud of this area.

We think Sean Sullivan has a vision and the qualification to make this happen for all of Tewksbury.

I thank the citizens, from all corners of Tewksbury who supported our effort and care for the Town's appearance.

Sean Sullivan has proven to us, to be open, inclusive and knowledgeable. He would be a Selectman we can be proud of.

My vote is for Sean.

Elsie Howell,
a concerned citizen.

A great season

Dear Editor,
We, as a group of senior citizens, would like to thank the Wilmington Girls and Boys basketball and hockey teams for a successful and wonderful season. Their hard work and sportsmanship is something that the town as a whole should be proud of. We will be back next season to stand and cheer you on.

The Back of the Wall Gang
Wilmington

A vote for Stronach

Dear Editor,
We support Ann Marie Stronach for the Town of Tewksbury Selectman. She is innovative, open minded, honest, and has integrity and common sense. She is dedicated to representing all generations within the Tewksbury community. Ann Marie has volunteered and been active in this community for many years, keeping her in touch with the pulse of our growing community. Her dedication, perseverance, financial expertise and ability to thoroughly research and explore all options when making a decision will be an asset to the board and already is an asset to the community. Ann Marie will provide diversity to the board to ensure the entire community is represented. She brings fresh ideas and new beginnings to an evolving community.

A vote for Ann Marie is a vote for our community moving forward.

Eric and Lisa Kuegler
Tewksbury

A vote for Stronach & Johnson

Dear Editor,
Spring is a season of new life, hope and fresh beginnings! Tewksbury residents have a unique opportunity this election season to help bring about change in the direction of leadership for our Town. It is with that in mind that I am casting my votes for Anne Marie Stronach and Todd Johnson to fill two important slots on our Board of Selectmen on Saturday, April 14th. Tewksbury desperately needs a change from the mundane and

I believe both of these candidates offer us that choice while bringing fresh ideas and new perspectives to our Town's government. These are two proactive citizens each in their own right, who have collectively been involved in several volunteer endeavors and committees within the Tewksbury community to help make it a better place, whether it's on the school front, town finance front, or the Community Food Pantry. It is to their credit that they have chosen to step up to the plate and make the commitment to serve on the board and I feel both Todd and Anne Marie will fairly represent the "average" Tewksbury citizen and taxpayer. As a community grows it is good not to stagnate, but rather to fan the "winds of positive change", with perhaps

"new" ways of thinking and doing things in order to move forward in looking for solutions. A vote for Stronach and Johnson will help steer us toward that goal.

Farewell My Soldier

One more soldier laid to rest
No battles will you fight.
You served your country valiantly
In day and dark of night.

With all our prayers we do our best
To honor one so brave
As family, friends and neighbors
Gather round your open grave.

A bugle plays a tribute sad
As mourners feel their pain
A flag is laid in grieving hands
To honor you again.

You gave your life, so dear to us
To save and to protect
Now we all share such sorrow
As we show you our respect.

We're proud of what you did that day
The job you took in stride
And others lived to tell us how
But for you, they would have died.

Farewell my soldier one last time
It hurts to say good-bye
We love you now forever
In our hearts you'll never die.

- Marcy Ragucci

Appointment of Wilmington Middle School Principal

WILMINGTON
Superintendent of Schools, William H. McAlduff, Jr. is pleased to announce the appointment of Ms. Christine McMenimen as the next Principal of the Wilmington Middle School.

McMenimen, who resides in Wilmington, has been the Principal of the Stoneham Middle School for the past two years. Previous to that she served as Assistant Principal of the Stoneham Middle School for eight years.

"McMenimen is a dedicated and enthusiastic administrator whose passion for middle school education is readily apparent," McAlduff said. "Her experience as a middle school teacher and administrator will serve her well in this new position. She is a strong advocate for middle school education having spent her entire career devoted to middle level students and staff. Ms. McMenimen has a strong work ethic and is looking forward to continuing her career in the community that she calls home."

This appointment, according to McAlduff, concludes a comprehensive and inclusive search process that began back in January. The search process yielded an excellent group of candidates for consideration.

McAlduff cites McMenimen's strong experience as a Middle School Foreign Language Teacher, Assistant Principal, and Principal; combined with her ability to work cooperatively with students, staff, and parents, as among the many qualifications that she will bring to the Wilmington Middle School.

McMenimen, who attended Wilmington public schools and is a member of Wilmington High School's Class of 1984, will begin her tenure at the Middle School on July 1, 2007.

I'd like to commend those responsible for the plowing during the storm last Friday night. I was traveling home from work at almost 1 a.m. through some surrounding towns and Wilmington by far had the best road conditions. After slipping and sliding almost all the way home, as soon as I crossed over into Wilmington the pavement was visible! Thanks for doing a great job!

Wilmington

Regarding the old fire house horn, its time someone dismantles it. I have two children ages 4 and 6 who were terrified on the night of the fire on Shawshen Ave. My family and I hold the utmost respect for the Wilmington firemen and are just asking for some respect and a quiet nights sleep.

Wilmington

In response to the horn blowing:
In response to those asking Fire Department to stop blowing the horns at 9 am and 9 pm, some of us still use this system: to get OUR CHILDREN IN THE HOUSE so we know where they are. The horns are also STILL a part of the Fire Department's way to let the Firefighters, that are not on duty, know that they are needed. They only blow the horns when it is a MAJOR FIRE. This one was a 2 Alarm and I'm sorry that your children were awakened, but think of the family that has lost their house. Wouldn't you want ALL of the Firefighters at your house if this happened to you? GOD FORBID. How would the Dispatchers get in touch with all the Firefighters while they are directing Fire and Police to the location? I have lived in this town for 39 years. You have stopped the trains from blowing their horns. You have increased OUR TAXES, by getting a new school (which most that voted for it have moved out of town) and Public Safety building and a lot more we did not need. We do need a sub station in North Wilmington and maybe we can get North Reading to help us get this since they are redeveloping the JT Berry. Look, this town is changing and, in my eyes, not for the better in some cases. Please do not take EVERYTHING away from us Reaction: I-93/I-95 at the first bend in road...

Cummings Properties likes what it sees

- State is on right track, they feel

By JIM HAGGERTY

WOBURN - Add Cummings Properties to the list of people who are comfortable with the two plans to re-build the interchanges as part of the I-93/I-95 Interchange Transportation Study report this week.

President Dennis Clarke of the Woburn-based Cummings Properties has been a regular for 4 1/2 years at Task Force meetings, and at the end of the most recent phase that was aired out at the new Woburn Memorial High School on Wednesday night, he was satisfied.

Clarke also had high praise for state officials, such as Task Force Coordinator Robert Frey and Task Force Design Leader James Purdy, as well as all Task Force members and especially Woburn City Engineer Jay Corey and City Planner Edmund Tarallo. Former Alderman Paul Medeiros from the East Woburn area, as well as current councilor Darlene Mercer Bruen, also received some major compliments from one of the city's largest real estate holders.

The new flyovers and cloverleaf changes at its apex skirts Cummings Properties off Washington Street on its northeast corner but not significantly.

However, Clarke was especially pleased over the fact the Task Force has bought into a Cummings-generated idea of having an "On Only" ramp off Cedar Street to the rear of their properties on the easterly side of Route 93. The idea hasn't been chiseled in cement, literally, yet, but the engineers seem to have been sold on a people solution (not an engineering solution) to drain the Cummings Properties area going south on I-93. The traffic going north along Washington Street to get to I-93 south made no sense, felt Clarke, and going south on Washington Street toward the Washington Street/Montvale Avenue conundrum made no sense at all.

Get them onto the highway fast, said Clarke, who said this was just one area never addressed when "engineer types" who designed the first, highly-controversial plan used only engineering solutions to the roadway upgrades.

The next step, the environmental review, said Clarke, is also very critical, as much flooding can be seen with back-to-back rain storms, including flooding on Washington Street. To properly address this issue, he said, like they did the roadway issue, it can mean a lot of relief for motorists on Washington Street and the area.

Just adding asphalt, said Clarke, will create even more problems if drainage isn't addressed in a proper manner at the same time.

Cummings Properties officials like Clarke have been paying very careful attention to every step in the process for nearly five years now. "It's going to have a major impact on us," feels Clarke, noting Cummings Properties critical location south of I-95 (Route 128) as one example, with an impact on their properties north of the highway equally affected.

"It was all very positive looking back," said Clarke. "There was a major input by the three communities (Reading, Woburn and Stoneham)," he said, which was very healthy in getting acceptance of the plan and public support to make it all work.

A lot of credit, too, said Clarke, has to be given to Mayor Thomas McLaughlin, who endorsed the Task Force effort and revamping of original plans at the Wednesday night meeting.

And, in a sense of the meeting, Clarke noted the stark change in mood from some three years ago at a meeting in Reading and even just a few months ago when some traffic, environment and health concerns were expressed in Reading, mainly by Reading residents and many who lived off South Street, Reading.

"You have to give credit to Mass. Highway and the Executive Office of Transportation at the state level," he opined, as well as officials from the Louis Berger Group, the advisors on the project who listened to the public's concerns.

Like the Reading, Woburn and Stoneham residents, Clarke vowed to be ever vigilant on what finally comes out from the state as its final plans. People, he said, are well aware these are concept plans in the first phase but will be ever cautious the final plans reflect their concerns.

Clarke also had high praise for the Daily Times Chronicle. "You were terrific. You got the word out to the people and people got involved. The publicity at each step was invaluable," he said.

"The way we look at it is that the city of Woburn's well being is our well being, too," he noted.

Current history, he said, has the city of Woburn working well in consort with Cummings Properties, like the new Trade Center Park that will temporarily house the Middlesex County Courthouse.

This decision alone, said, Clarke, means about $750,000 in new taxes to Woburn. Cummings Properties/Cummings Foundation pays just short of $4 million in taxes each year in Woburn, plus hundreds of jobs.

Back in August 2004, Cummings Park and West Cummings Park that included 59 acres was gifted by Cummings Properties LLC to the Cummings Foundation Inc. as part of a large-scale charitable donation of most of the family's real estate assets. The 11-building, 1.5 million-square feet had been developed by William Cummings since 1971. Cummings itself employs 350-plus employees in the area. A dozen other buildings in Woburn area are also owned by Cummings Properties itself.

"I felt we and the city were well represented on the Task Force," concluded Clarke, who said the process will continue and each step will need to be viewed carefully by all concerned.

I work for a local public school, I do not get paid vacations or holidays. I do get 2 paid personal days. So I put in for my 2 days saying I had a family obligation out of state. I was called into the director of administration and finance to elaborate. Well I was approve for the 2 days WITHOUT PAY. Because visiting your elderly in-laws is not personal its a vacation and I'm not in titled to a paid vacation.

Maybe it's state's that in the employee handbook. Which I never received.

Globe unit loses injunction bid

Middlesex Superior Court has rejected a bid by Globe Direct, the direct mail subsidiary of The Boston Globe, to block a Wilmington direct mail firm from using information alleged to have been misappropriated by former Globe Direct employees.

Kirkwood Direct LLC, a subsidiary of Kirkwood Printing Co., also of Wilmington, said in a news release that the court denied Globe Direct's motion for a preliminary injunction after reviewing evidence.

In February, Globe Direct filed suit against Kirkwood Direct, Kirkwood Printing, and six former Globe employees now working at Kirkwood

Direct, alleging they carted away customer lists and histories and "other vital trade secrets" from Globe Direct.

Globe Direct, in addition to seeking unspecified monetary damages, asked the court to block the Wilmington firm from using that information, a request the court rejected, according to Kirkwood. Kirkwood and the former Globe Direct employees denied misappropriating any information.

The court's ruling on the injunction does not end the case, which is still pending.

Kirkwood officials said in a prepared statement that they were "gratified, but not surprised by the court's ruling."

Wilmington's Nee-Elsworth VFW Post 2458 celebrates Diamond Jubilee Anniversary

WILMINGTON - Gary Kurpius, national commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, has announced the presentation of a Diamond Jubilee Award citation to VFW Post 2458 in Wilmington. The Post will celebrate its 75th anniversary on April 3.

"This is a very significant milestone for a VFW Post," Kurpius said in announcing the award. "This Diamond Jubilee Award recognizes dedication, determination, hard work and a lot of patriotism. And it recognizes 75 years of serving the needs of local veterans and their families; and 75 years of service to the local community, and 75 years of contributing to the strength, power and influence of our national organization. In presenting this award, I send my sincere thanks and appreciation to the members of VFW Post 2458."

There are 2.4 million members of the VFW and its Auxiliaries located in approximately 8,500 Posts worldwide. The VFW, founded in 1899, assists all veterans and their families in obtaining veterans entitlements and other services. In addition, the organization works for the well being of those serving on active duty, in the National Guard and the Reserve.

25th annual Walk for Hunger begins Good Friday

On Friday, April 6, 2007, the 25th Annual Greater Lowell Walk For Hunger takes off.

Registration is from 8:00 a.m.-11:00 a.m., and the walk begins at 9:00 a.m. at St. Mark's Church (at the corner of Cold Spring and Graniteville Roads, Westford.)

The Walk is a 13-mile scenic course consisting of two loops (4.2 & 8.8 mi) between St. Mark's in Westford, and West Chelmsford United Methodist Church, with convenient stops to rest and hydrate. One may walk either one or both loops with van transportation available at any time for a ride back to St. Mark's. There is first aid, courtesy of Trinity Ambulance, and lunch consisting of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, fruit and beverages at West Chelmsford United Methodist Church.

The proceeds of the walk go nationally to Sharing Inc., and locally to the Alternative House, House of Hope, Lowell Transitional Living Center, Greater Lowell Open Pantry, Salvation Army, Merrimack Valley Food Bank's Mobile Pantry, and the food pantries in Westford and Chelmsford. Through the efforts of last year's walkers, $28,500 was distributed to help these agencies feed and care for the needy. This year the goal is to raise $35,000. ## Barbara A. Desharnais, R.N. State Deputy of the Massachusetts Grange; 78

TEWKSBURY - Barbara A. (Grant) Desharnais, R.N., 78, an active member of the Parish community of St. William's in Tewksbury, died Thursday morning, March 22, 2007, at her Tewksbury home after a courageous one year battle with cancer. She was the wife of the late Roland A. Desharnais, who died in November 2005.

She was born in Newton, on April 12, 1928, a daughter of the late John and Kathleen (Boyle) Grant. She was raised in Newton and attended Our Lady of Perpetual Help School, and later the Boston City Hospital School of Nursing. She moved to Tewksbury in 1961.

She retired from St. Joseph's Hospital in Lowell, where she had worked in several departments, including her longest tour within the hospital's pediatrics department.

Active in fraternal orders, she was currently the State Deputy of the Massachusetts Grange, a member of the Tewksbury Veterans of Foreign Wars Post #64, Women's Auxiliary, the Tewksbury Disabled American Veterans Post 110, Women's Veterans of the St. William's Sodality. In her later years, she was also a member of the Tewksbury Senior Center and a member of the Tewksbury Golden Age Club.

Barbara Desharnais was an active member and Eucharistic Minister of St. William's Parish community and attended daily Mass at 9 a.m. when her health permitted.

She is survived by six children: Ann Marie Cantwell and her husband Walter of Westborough; Patricia Judd of Lowell; John A. Desharnais of Tewksbury; Roland E. Desharnais and his wife Elizabeth (Silver) of Burlington; Kevin W. Desharnais and his wife Joanne (Carney) of Derry, NH, and Linda Y. Desharnais of Tewksbury; ten grandchildren,

Kelley Dickson of Dracut, Michael Cantwell of Windham, NH, Steven Cantwell of Lowell, Patty Cebula of Dracut, Roland E. Desharnais Jr. of Fla., Rachel Desharnais Texas, Matthew Desharnais of Burlington, Jennifer Desharnais of Missouri, Gavin Desharnais and Elaine Desharnais both of Derry, NH; eight great grandchildren, Billy, Katie, Andrew, Mallorie, Steven J., Lexi, Brian, and Julian; her sister-in-law, Dorothy Grant of Lexington; brother-in-law, Harold Behling of Utah; many nieces and nephews; and her dear long time friend, Regina Thomas of Tewksbury.

She was also mother of the late Thomas D. Desharnais and William P. Desharnais, and sister of the late John L. Grant, Virginia Taverna, and Jean Behling.

Her funeral was held Monday, March 26, in St. William's Church, Tewksbury, followed by burial in Tewksbury Cemetery. Memorials to the Saints Medical Center, Spindle Fund, c/o Foundation Office, P.O. Box 367, Lowell, MA 01853, will be appreciated.

Arrangements were through the Tewksbury Funeral Home. www.tewksburyfuneralhome.com

Private First Class John Francis Landry, Jr.

A local hero, laid to rest in Wilmington

Private First Class John Francis Landry, Jr., arrived into this world three weeks early on Christmas Day in 1986, in Malden, MA, he was the beloved son of John F. Landry, Sr., and Pamela (Morse) Landry of Lowell, formerly of Wilmington. As his parents put it "we were thrilled because it gave us extra time with him." He was placed in a Christmas Stocking in the nursery before he was given to his parents, it was love at first sight.

He grew up in Lowell, MA, but he has strong family ties to the Community in Wilmington. He attended Lowell Public Schools in his younger years and attended Lowell Catholic High School. Throughout high school John was a leader, a member of the student council, the campus ministry, he served as a student ambassador, and was an avid athlete playing both basketball and football. A force to be reckoned with, John, as a lineman on his football team, #57, stood 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighed 240 pounds, he played both offensively and defensively with fierce determination and strength. As a student, his intelligence was phenomenal, he set goals for himself and he worked hard to be a straight A student and his favorite subject was U. S. History. John went on to graduate with cum laude honors from Lowell Catholic High School in 2005.

John received a scholarship to go to college, but first he was determined to serve his country. He came from a military family, his father John, Sr., was a Marine and his grandfather a member of the 82nd Airborne Division. His high school principal Maryellen DeMarco recalls that John talked about joining the military throughout most of his high school career. She quoted him as saying that he was going to serve his country and make her proud. Shortly after graduating John began training at Fort Benning in Georgia and was based at Fort Bliss in Texas. He had been serving on the front lines with the Second Battalion, 12th Cavalry Regiment of the First Cavalry Division since October 31, 2006.

In speaking with his family, they fondly talk of his caring ways, how he saw the good in people, he was a care giver, a good son and brother, a wonderful and doting uncle to

Donovan, a good friend, a gentle giant, very honorable and proud, just the best. Even in death he gave back, his aunts were saying that he brought his family closer and reunited them with relatives from out of state, making them promise to keep contact and realize how short life really is. John loved his family, his parents, sister, nephew, grandparents, his many aunts, uncles, cousins and they do find some comfort in knowing that John will be at peace in the loving arms of his grandmother Lorraine.

John was killed in action on March 17, 2007, in Baghdad, Iraq, defending his fellow soldiers, a troubled country, and a grateful nation. He has a tattoo on his left bicep that reads "my lifestyle determines my death style." John lived as a Hero and died as a Hero.

John was the dear brother of Britney Landry of Lowell, loving uncle of Donovan Landry grandson of Robert and Barbara (Duggan) Morse of Florida, great grandson of Violet M. Duggan of Wilmington, also survived by many aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends that will miss him dearly.

His Funeral Mass was held on Tuesday, March 27, at St. Thomas Church followed by interment in Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington.

Memorial donation's in John's name may be made to the Lowell Catholic High School Memorial Giving Program, 530 Stevens St., Lowell, MA 01851.

Arrangements were under the direction of the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. Wilmington.

Madeline F. O'Keefe

Worked at Snack Shack and Market Basket in No. Billerica; 82

TEWKSBURY - Madeline F. (Mackey) O'Keefe, age 82, a well known member of the Tewksbury community, died Saturday afternoon, March 24, 2007, at Saints Medical Center in Lowell after a lengthy illness. She was the wife of the late Ret. Major Timothy L. O'Keefe Jr., U.S. Army.

Mrs. O'Keefe was born in East Boston, on October 3, 1924, one of nine children of the late Richard F. and Elizabeth F. (Meaney) Mackey. She was raised in East Boston and graduated from East Boston High School. As an Army officer's wife, she lived throughout the U.S., including a duty tour at Schofield Army Base in Oahu, Hawaii, where she proudly managed the Commissioned Officer's Club. The O'Keefe family settled in Tewksbury in 1968, where she remained for the last 39 years.

Mrs. O'Keefe was an active member of St. William's Parish community in Tewksbury.

She worked as a waitress at the Snack Shack Restaurant in Tewksbury, and later worked into her late 70's in the Bakery Department at the Treble Cove Market Basket in Billerica.

She is survived by a son and daughter-in-law, Kevin M. O'Keefe and his wife Diane (Powers) of Longwood, Fla.; twin daughters, Elizabeth A. "Betsy" (O'Keefe) Schomburg of South Boston, and Kathleen A. Westaway and her husband Tewksbury Police, Det. Sgt. Robert Westaway of Tewksbury; three brothers, Robert F. Mackey of Salem, MA, Richard F. Mackey of Tewksbury, William F. Mackey and his wife Elizabeth "Betty" (Gallant) of Tewksbury; two sisters, Marjorie E. DiManno and her husband Paul of So. Boston, Lorraine F. Fournier and her husband Richard of Everett; a brother-in-law, John Joyce of Seminole, Fla.; eleven grandchildren, David M. O'Keefe of Haverhill, Brian J. O'Keefe of Dracut, Kelly E. and Ryan W. Schomburg of So. Boston, Kerri L., Erin E., Katelin A., and Daniel R. Westaway all of Tewksbury, Stephen, Sean, and Matthew Moore all of Fla.; seven great grandchildren; and numerous nieces and nephews.

She was also sister of the late Thomas F. Mackey, Rita F. Joyce, and Elizabeth T. Layne and sister in law to Mary (Crith) Mackey

Volunteer with homeless children

Horizons for Homeless Children is looking for volunteers to play with some great kids for 2 hours a week. Your time can make a world of difference for the children living in homeless shelters in Massachusetts. Many located in the Northshore and surrounding area.

A commitment of six months and attendance at a training session are required. You can attend any of our trainings. A two-evening training will be held in Lowell on the evenings of April 25 and 26. You must attend both sessions. For more information, visit our website: www.horizonsforhomelesschildren.org.

Environment Massachusetts commends Rep. Tierney for co-sponsoring science- based global warming bill

BOSTON - Environment Massachusetts applauded Representative Tierney and all other U.S. representatives from Massachusetts for cosponsoring legislation introduced today to fight global warming. The Safe Climate Act would limit global warming pollution to levels that current science says are needed to prevent the worst effects of global warming. The bill was introduced by a bipartisan group of over 125 members led by Representative Henry Waxman (D-CA), the chair of the House Oversight Committee and a senior member of the House Energy and Commerce Committee.

"We commend Representative Tierney for supporting strong, science-based legislation to fight global warming. Global warming is the most important environmental challenge of our time, and future generations will judge us by how we handle it," said Diana Connett, Energy Associate for Environment Massachusetts.

The world's leading scientific institutions have been united in recognizing the grave threat posed by human-caused global warming, a fact underscored by the recent report by the United Nation's Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change, which called the evidence that global warming is occurring "unequivocal."

Now, many scientists are also warning that time is running out to prevent the worst effects of global warming. NASA's chief climatologist, Dr. James Hansen, has said that we must begin to reduce global warming pollution within 10 years or risk climate change that would result in "practically a different planet."

The Safe Climate Act, first introduced in June 2006, would reduce total U.S. global warming emissions to 1990 levels by 2020 (a 15% reduction from today's levels) and to 80% below 1990 levels by 2050. To achieve these emission reductions, the bill calls for a greater reliance on clean, renewable energy and improved energy efficiency.

"Energy efficiency and renewable energy are common sense solutions to reduce global warming pollution, but we have to put them to use. These technologies also will reduce our dependence on oil and other dirty fossil fuels," said Connett.

Environment Massachusetts is the new home for MASSPIRG's environmental work.

Freeing up field space

Private fundraising efforts to determine the actual costs for artificial turf

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Field space for youth sports has become sparse over the last several years. In addition to football, softball, and baseball, the proliferation of soccer over the last 15 years or so, and the addition of youth lacrosse, have stretched Wilmington's existing outdoor fields to the limit. The participation in high school athletics, which also adds track and field hockey to the litany of athletics vying for field space, further exacerbates the issue.

But there is a group of residents looking to tackle the problem, and they are ready to put their money where their mouths are.

In order to meet the growing demand for field space, this group is advocating a course of action that will maximize the town's existing fields, prior to constructing new ones. They point to Alumni Field, located behind Wilmington High School, as a premiere example of a field that is unavoidably underutilized due to existing conditions.

During the typical fall sports season, Alumni Field hosts 43 high school football, soccer, and field hockey games, as well as weekly practices for the high school marching band. This represents approximately 100 hours of use during the entire season. Aside from the high school track team's use of it during the spring season, Alumni Field is all but off-limits during the spring and summer seasons. The time off is necessary for re-building, re-seeding, resting and grooming of the natural turf in order for it to be ready for the next fall season.

Mark Nasiff, the President of Wilmington Youth Soccer and one of the leaders of the movement to maximize the town's existing field space, suggests that infill artificial turf may present the answer.

"I've been an advocate for infill artificial turf for several years," Nasiff says. "I don't know a town in Middlesex County that doesn't have it, or is not currently considering it."

According to Nasiff, infill artificial turf (IAT) would eliminate all play limits on a given field. An IAT field could, conceivably, host athletic events 24-hours a day, 7-days a week, and the turf is guaranteed for 20-years. In addition to realistically increasing the use of Alumni Field by approximately 400 hours per year, it also would "free up" the use of other fields in town for hundreds of hours per year.

"There has been a lot of talk about putting lights at the Shawsheen fields to extend playtime, but the benefits would be short-lived," Nasiff said. "The fields would not be able to handle the additional playtime for long."

Alumni Field, Nasiff points out, already has lights. With IAT, Alumni Field would be able to host countless athletic events.

"This is 'Alumni Field,' not 'the football field.' Let's make it that way," Nasiff said.

The IAT technology is nothing like the artificial turf of just a few years ago that most people picture.

"The turf today is soft - it feels like grass," Nasiff said. "It is much different than it was 20 - or even 10 - years ago. Just 5-years ago they began developing this type of turf."

But how much is this going to cost?

The town's Department of Public Works estimated that the installation of IAT - including all of the preliminary prep work - could run as high as $825,000, but only an engineering study would be able to verify the accuracy of that estimate.

That's where Nasiff and his group come in. They are endeavoring to raise private funds to pay for an engineering study of Alumni Field. They believe it likely that the true cost may be significantly lower than $825,000, and that it would whether or not to cost is justified.

The cost for a qualified engineering firm to conduct a comprehensive engineering survey is $25,000. According to Nasiff, Wilmington Youth Soccer, Pop will be priced at $100 and no more than 300 tickets will be sold. First prize will be $10,000, second prize will be a weekend at Loon Mountain, and third prize will be dinner for 10 at Focaccia's Restaurant.

This field surface is infill artificial turf. It looks just as good on the last day of the season as it does on the first day of the season. As a matter of fact, it will support heavy-duty athletic activities 24-hours a day, 7-days a week and still look brand new. Courtesy photo

This is Wilmington's Alumni Field at the end of the fall season after just 100 hours of use. The majority of the turf is non-existent. It will take re-seeding, fertilizing and three seasons of rest to be ready for the following fall season. Courtesy photo prove to be more cost-effective than constructing a new field.

"The high school field has all of the infrastructure - the lights, the stands, the snack bar, the scoreboard," Nasiff said. "All of those are costs above and beyond the construction of a field."

Additionally, Nasiff points out, IAT is virtually maintenance-free, eliminating the costs of fertilizer, seed, and irrigation; not to mention the labor costs of cutting the grass and painting the lines each and every week. Concord-Sudbury, says Nasiff, experienced a return on their IAT investment within 5 years.

"Anyone who says, 'This is a million bucks, why are we doing this,' doesn't understand the benefits of this and doesn't truly understand the need in this town for field space," Nasiff said.

Once an engineering study is complete, then the townspeople will have the opportunity to make an informed decision on

Warner, and Youth Lacrosse have all donated substantially to the effort. To make up the difference, Nasiff's group is holding a $10,000 raffle. Tickets

The drawing will be held on April 4th. To purchase tickets, contact Mark Nasiff via email at mrknas@comcast.net.

Giving Tewksbury students a voice in creating safe schools

By Christine L. McGrath,
Ph.D. Superintendent of Schools

Suggestion boxes were recently installed in all of our K-12 schools. The purpose of the box is to provide a confidential forum for students to raise concerns and offer suggestions. These boxes are locked and are located in a place in each school that will allow a student to remain anonymous when offering the suggestion.

Students will be encouraged to use the suggestion box to notify the administration of instances of bully behavior in the school, on the playground or on the bus. They may also be used to inform the administration of anything in the school environment that is causing them to be distracted from having a productive and positive school day.

Students will also be encouraged to use these boxes to offer constructive criticism or to recommend future programs and/or initiatives to improve school culture. These boxes also send a message to our students that they are integral members of the school community and their input is both welcome and appreciated.

The idea of the suggestions boxes came from the members of our District Security Team. This idea was further reinforced by the information we obtain from student participants in our recent strategic planning focus groups and student responses on the recent Tewksbury C.A.R.E.S. survey.

Please encourage your son or daughter to make use of these suggestion boxes. We will make every effort to follow through on the suggestions that are offered and to communicate our actions to the members of our student bodies.

Who will be the 2007 Good Guy? Time is running out!

WILMINGTON - The deadline is fast-approaching for this year's "GOOD GUY" nominations. Don't forget to nominate that special person you feel should be recognized by the town. All entries, to be eligible, must be postmarked no later than Monday, April 2, 2007. All email nominations must be received no later than Monday, April 2, 2007.

The "Good Guy" Award is given annually to an outstanding citizen—male or female—who lives in our community and gives of themselves to make our community a better place in which to live. Politicians are not eligible for this award.

Nominations should be sent to the "Good Guy" Committee,

P.O. Box 443, Wilmington, MA 01887, and should include your reasons why your "Good Guy or Gal" should be selected. If you wish to email your nomination, send it to: wilmington-goodguy@verizon.net.

The award will be presented at the 39th Annual "Good Guy" Banquet on Friday, May 11, 2007, at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Wilmington, with a social time at 7 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m.

This will be your last opportunity to take a few minutes and let the Committee know who you feel is most deserving of this year's "Good Guy" Award. Thank you for your nominations.

Deadline: April 2, 2007

Reminder: The Tewksbury Golden Age Club is accepting applications for their annual Scholarship Award Program. Applications are available at the front desk of the White House as is the policy regarding the eligibility of student applicants. The parent or grandparent nominating a student must be a member of the GAC for the at least two years. The student must attend either the Tewksbury Memorial High School or the Shawsheen Technical High School and must live in Tewksbury.

Membership Meetings - The next scheduled membership meeting will be held at 12:30 PM on Tuesday April 10, 2007 at the Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club. There will be Zingo after the meeting.

Penny Sale: On March 13th the Golden Age Club held their annual Penny Sale at the Tewksbury Rod & Gun club. We were very fortunate this year in that we had more items for sale and the attendance was much better than last year. We were especially thankful to all of the people that dropped off new items for the sale. The Entertainment and Activity Committee received well-deserved kudos for a well-run sale. It would be difficult to name all of the winners suffice to say that because of the great showing the GAC went away a winner. Thanks to everyone that attended and helped during the sale.

Reminder: Deposits for the California Rail Discovery Trip for September 19, 2007 is now due. Please fill out the back of the flier and make checks of $300 per person to Premier World Discovery. Credit cards are also acceptable.

Deposits are due before April 15th, 2007. Please return checks and fliers to Rose McKenna at the White House (temporary home of the Senior Center) 460 East Street, Tewksbury.

ATTENTION: All you dance and music lovers. The Tewksbury Golden Age Club members and friends are at it again this year. The Golden Age Club presents "Toe Tapping Tunes" variety show at the John Wynn Middle School, Victor Road, Tewksbury, Saturday November 17 2007 at 7 P.M. and Sunday November 18, 2007 at 2 P.M. Rehearsals will begin at the Tewksbury Rod and Gun Club on Wednesday April 11, 2007 at 6 P.M.

Anyone interested in participating in the show please call the "White House" at 978-640-4480 or stop by for more information.

Masons' child ID program

WILMINGTON - The Masonic Youth Child Identification Program - commonly referred to as MYCHIP - is coming to Wilmington on Saturday March 31, 2007, giving the parents of Wilmington and surrounding communities the opportunity to obtain vital information for crime prevention.

Wilmington Freemasons invite children, age 18 and younger, to participate in a comprehensive Child Identification Program at the Wilmington Public Safety Building (Police/Fire Building next to Rotary Park) on Saturday, March 31, 2007 from 10:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m. Each child will have a brief videotape interview, will be fingerprinted by police personnel, and will have a Toothprint* impression and cheek swab made by professional dental personnel. All materials are given to the parents for safekeeping. No copies are kept on file and the program is free to all.

This MYCHIP program is conducted by members of Friendship Lodge in cooperation with the Massachusetts Dental Society and the Wilmington Police Department.

As of January 2007, over 240,000 children have already participated in Masonic Youth Child Identification Programs (MYCHIP) throughout Massachusetts.

The Toothprint* impression is a relatively new means of identification. The child bites down on a wafer, making a permanent, archival record of their teeth. Toothprints* were developed by Dr. David Tesini of Framingham, a pediatric dentist who developed Toothprints* as another means of identifying a child when fingerprints alone may not suffice.

Peter Banks, Director of the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, was the first to suggest that the saliva on the Toothprint* wafers might be a suitable sample for nuclear DNA testing and scent recovery by bloodhound recovery dogs; both have been clinically documented. It has been shown that 3 years after a toothprint has been taken, the saliva is still viable for DNA testing. He also stated that, since the Toothprint* wafer is sealed in a "zipper"-type plastic bag, enough scent remains for a trained dog to identify and track it.

Masonic Youth Child Identification programs are held periodically throughout Massachusetts and may be sponsored by any group but are generally sponsored by local Masonic Lodges as part of their community service programs. Many school officials have requested that the program be brought into the school systems in their municipalities.

When considering the frightening statistics that over 1-million children are reported missing in the United States each year, and that there are over 100,000 attempted abductions by non-family members for the same period, and that more than 500,000 Americans remain unidentified, the value of this program is enormous.

Freemasonry is the oldest and largest fraternal organization in the world. The Grand Lodge of Massachusetts was established in 1733 and is the third oldest Grand Lodge in the world. Today, there are over 50,000 Freemasons in Massachusetts that meet in more than 275 individual Lodges in cities and towns throughout the Commonwealth. Grand Master Jeffrey Black Hodgdon is the latest in a succession of distinguished Massachusetts Freemasons to hold that office. Previous Grand Masters include Revolutionary War patriots Paul Revere and General Joseph Warren.

Freemasons in North America contribute more than $2,000,000 each day to charity. Freemasons operate the Shriners Burns Hospital in Boston where more than 750 severely burned children are admitted each year and treated at no charge. Some 3,700 children are treated each year in the hospital's clinic, again at no charge. Freemasons also operate the Shriners Orthopedic Hospital in Springfield where children are treated at no charge.

Freemasons are responsible for collecting more than 80 percent of the blood collected by the Red Cross in Massachusetts—more than 20,000 pints annually. They also provide more than $400,000 in scholarship assistance annually. Masonic Lodges promote child safety through statewide Child Identification Programs. Masonic Lodges also sponsor and support the Order of DeMolay for young men and the Order of Rainbow for young women with several active chapters and assemblies here in Massachusetts.

For more information call 1-800-882-1020 or visit the Masonic Youth Child Identification Program (MYCHIP) web site at: www.mychip.org. The website will contain information and locations of other MYCHIP events for those not able to attend Wilmington's event.

Upcoming Children's Programs

Music & More

Bernadette Baird presents music and movement for toddlers and young children through age three on Monday, April 9th at 10 a.m. Sing, play musical instruments and dance! Tickets are required and may be reserved at no cost by visiting or calling the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098 beginning Thursday, March 29th. Sponsored by the Family Foundations Network, a program funded by the Massachusetts Board of Early Education and Care and managed by Community Teamwork, Inc.

Children's Movie Night

The newest film adaptation of E. B. White's classic book, Charlotte's Web, will be screened on Tuesday, April 3rd at 6:30 p.m. Drop-in with something comfortable to sit on, if desired. Free popcorn and lemonade will be served. Rated: G.

Star Mag Meeting

Children ages eight and older are invited to drop-in on Wednesday, April 4th at 3:30 p.m., with their finished original artwork, puzzles, poems, comics, jokes, etc., as contributions to the spring issue of this magazine written by, for and about kids, and published by the library. Refreshments will be served and a door prize provided by the Friends of the Library will be awarded.

Happy Spring Story/Craft

A Happy Spring Story/Craft for children ages five and older will be held on Wednesday, April 11th at 3:30 p.m. Visit or call the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098 beginning Thursday, March 29th to register.

Book Discussions

Read One Small Dog by Johanna Hurwitz and join children ages seven and older for their next book discussion to be held on Friday, April 6th at 3:30 p.m.

Kids ages nine and older are continuing their reading of the Harry Potter series with the fourth book, Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire by J. K. Rowling. Discussion will be held on Friday, April 13th at 3:30 p.m. Copies of the books may be reserved by visiting or calling the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098. Drop-in for the discussion and a snack. A door prize will be provided by the Friends of the Library.

News from the Teen Zone Books for your MP3 Player

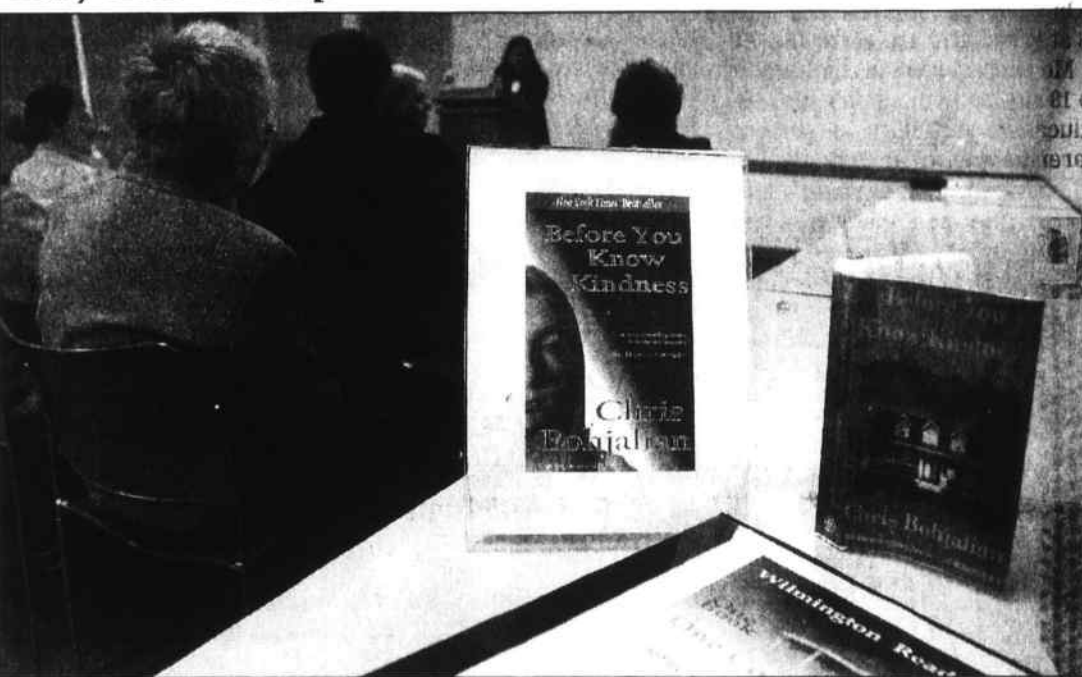

If you're a teen looking for something new to put on your MP3 player, make sure you take a look at Overdrive, the library's collection of downloadable audio books. You can listen to recent additions, like Artemis Fowl and Sisterhood of the Traveling Pants books, or classics like The Chocolate War or The Outsiders. It's easy to download and install the free software, then borrow the files from the Overdrive system. When the loan period is over, the file is automatically returned, so you don't even need to worry about overdue fines! Still prefer to get your audio books the old-fashioned way, on a CD? We've got some new titles that way, too—Stephanie Meyer's Twilight and Dana Reinhardt's A Brief Chapter in My Impossible Life. Come on in and take a listen!

Teen Dungeons and Dragons

The Dungeons and Dragons group will meet Tuesday, April 10, from 3-5 p.m. The group will also meet twice during school vacation week, on Tuesday, April 17 and Wednesday, April 18, from 3-5 p.m. Beginners through advanced players, sixth grade and older, are welcome. We'll provide the snacks. All those who attend may enter the drawing for a free Dungeons and Dragons-themed prize donated by the Friends of the Library.

Crafty Teens Workshop:

When Bad Things Happen to Good Families

The Wilmington Reads 2007 selection, Before You Know Kindness, centers around an accidental shooting and the ways in which that incident affects a previously tight-knit family. As part of the Wilmington Reads Schedule of events, Lenin Gross Young, the Assistant Director of Wilmington Family Counseling, discussed the impact of trauma on a family and how to deal with it in a healthy way.

Children's Room April Events

April 16 to 21 is National Library Week! Help the Library earn books and funding for our Summer Reading Program by shopping at Barnes & Noble with our special vouchers on Friday and Saturday, April 20 and 21. Just present a voucher (available at any of our desks) when you are shopping at Barnes & Noble and our Library will earn credit! Vouchers are only good for those 2 days, so please help us out if you can! Also, for the month of April, if you bring in an item for the Food Pantry, your late fines will be waived (not fines for lost or damaged items). Lost your library card? National Library Week is the time to get a replacement without paying the $1.00 replacement fee!

Parents may be interested in attending our Building Self-Esteem Workshop. Come to this workshop to learn how to give positive reinforcement to your child's attempts at mastery of simple skills. This workshop will be held on Monday, April 2 from 6:30pm until 8:00pm. Registration is required for this program. Please call 978.640.4496 beginning on March 19 to register. This program is provided by Community Teamwork, Inc., which is funded by the Massachusetts Department of Early Education and Care.

On Wednesday, April 4, 11 and 18 at 10:00am, join us for a Baby & Me Group for children ages 0 to 18 months. This group offers education and resources for parents regarding nutrition, sleeping, feeding, and development along with singing, movement and playful activities. This group is limited to 15 children. You may register for any or all of the groups. Registration is required and begins on March 27. Call 978.640.4496. This group is provided by South Bay Early Intervention.

Wiggle Time for 2 year olds is on Thursdays and Fridays on the following dates: April 5, 6, 12 and 13 at 10:30am. You must register for Wiggle Time. You may register for any 2 dates. Registration begins on March 26. Call 978.640.4496 to register. Children 18 to 24 months are also welcome to sign up.

Toddlers can come to our drop in Toddler Craft on Wednesday, April 25 between 10:30am and 11:30am. We'll be making a Flower Picture. Please, only one craft per child and no children 3 years or older. No registration required.

Come to our Dance Party! Children ages 1 to 5 are invited to learn the dance moves to Wiggles' songs with Miss Noelle on Thursday, April 26 at 11:00am. A ticket is required for admittance to this event. Everyone coming into the room needs a ticket! Free tickets are available at the Children's desk beginning on Monday, April 23. Limit of 6 tickets per person. Tickets may not be held via phone or email and will not be given out before the April 23.

Preschoolers ages 3 to 6 can make a Tooth Fairy Box Craft on either Saturday, April 7 at 11:00am or Monday, April 9 at 11:00am. Register for either craft on April 3. Children ages 3 to 6 can also create a Tube Caterpillar Craft on Monday, April 23 at 2:00pm. Register on April 18. Call 978.640.4496 to register for these crafts. All crafts are limited to 16 children and last about 30 minutes. Please remember to call us if you can't attend a craft you've signed up for since there are always waiting lists.

Preschool Story Time for ages 3 to 5 is on Tuesday, April 10 and 24 at 11:00am. Pajamarama Preschool Story Time for ages 3 to 6 is on Tuesday, April 10 and Monday, April 30 at 7:00pm. All Preschool Story Times are run on a drop in basis. Pajamas are optional at the Pajamarama, but are fun to wear!

School age kids can spend April vacation week with us! On Tuesday, April 17, the ATA Black Belt Academy is back to teach their Stranger Danger workshop for kids ages 5 to 12. Come learn with drills and a video how to be safe in a variety of situations. Register on April 10 for this workshop. Call 978.640.4496 to register.

On Wednesday, April 18, the ATA Black Belt Academy is back to hold their Bullyproofing Workshop for children ages 5 to 12 at 10:30am. Come learn how to not become a target for bullies and how to turn the situation around. Register on April 10 for this workshop. Call 978.640.4496 to register.

On Wednesday April 18 at 2:00pm, kids ages 6 to 12 can join our Ancient China

Adventure. We'll learn about ancient China, make a craft and have a Chinese-style snack. This program is limited to 16 children. Registration begins on April 10. Call 978.640.4496 to register.

On Thursday, April 19, kids ages 6 to 12 can come by for Games Day between 2:00pm and 3:30pm. We'll be running a variety of different games in our first floor meeting room, so come on by and see what we'll be playing! No registration required.

On Saturday, April 21, we'll be holding our second Mother-Daughter Book Club. Moms, aunts, grandmothers, et cetera are welcome to accompany any girls ages 9 to 14 at 10:30am to discuss the historical adventure, The True Confessions of Charlotte Doyle by Avi. We'll have breakfast snacks, chat about the book, and then do an activity. Pick up copies of the book to read at the Circulation desk. No registration is required.

On Tuesday, April 24 at 7:00pm, children ages 5 to 12 can drop by for Movie Night! We'll be watching Lost in the Woods, a spring animal story based on the book of the same name. No registration required.

Please remember that the Library will be closed on Monday, April 16 to observe Patriot's Day.

For more information about the Children's Room or our programs, please call Noelle and Karen at 978.640.4496. Or check us out on the internet at www.tewksburypl.org.

American Lung Association says:

Test your home for radon gas

With the sudden change in temperature, we close our homes up in an attempt to keep them warm and our heating bills low; however, the American Lung Association (ALA), and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) caution about trapping other unwanted gases along with the heat. Putting in storm windows and keeping the doors closed can lead to toxic gas being contained inside your house. The ALA and EPA are encouraging Massachusetts residents to test their homes for radon. Radon is a naturally forming radioactive gas produced inside the earth's rock and soil. When the winter comes, and the ground begins to freeze, radon has to find other ways to release, and it uses our underground pipes, wires and cracks in our basement, releasing into the house. If this gas is inhaled, it can cause lung cancer and damage to lung tissue; currently radon is the second leading cause of lung cancer in the United States, and as many as 10% of US homes have high levels of radon.

The American Lung Association of Massachusetts wants to help protect you, your family, and your home from radon all winter long. The Surgeon General recommends that all homes below the third floor be tested for radon. Radon kits are available at the American Lung Association for $10.00, and they check the levels of radon inside your home for your safety. Send a check or money order to the American Lung Association of MA, or charge by phone with your MC, Visa, American Express or Discover card. Contact the American Lung Association at 1-800-LUNG-USA, or www.lung- ma.org for more information on radon, and how to keep your home radon free this winter.

Beginning our second century, the American Lung Association is the leading organization working to prevent lung disease and promote lung health. Lung disease death rates continue to increase while other leading causes of death have declined. The American Lung Association funds vital research on the causes of and treatments for lung disease. With the generous support of the public, the American Lung Association is "Improving life, one breath at a time." For more information about the American Lung Association or to support the work it does, call 1-800-LUNG-USA (1-800-586-4872) or log on to www.lung-usa.org.

Nominations sought for Massachusetts history teacher of the year

NEW YORK - The Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History is seeking nominations for the annual Massachusetts History Teacher of the Year Award. The Institute, in partnership with Preserve America, inaugurated the award in 2004.

The History Teacher of the Year Award is designed to promote and celebrate the teaching of American history in classrooms across the United States. It honors one exceptional teacher of American history from each state and U.S. territory. [This year, only K - 6 teachers are eligible for nomination.] The selection of the state winner is based upon several criteria, including: experience in teaching American history for at least three years; a deep career commitment to teaching American history; evidence of creativity and imagination in the classroom; and close attention to documents, artifacts, historic sites, and the other primary materials of history.

The state winner will receive a $1,000 honorarium and will be in the running for the National History Teacher of the Year award to be selected this fall. His or her school library will receive a core archive of history books and materials.

The deadline is April 6, 2007. For more information, contact Deborah Walker, Massachusetts Coordinator, at 781-338-3347 or djwalker@doe.mass.edu.

Founded in 1994, the Gilder Lehrman Institute of American History promotes the study and love of American history. Increasingly national and international in scope, the Institute targets audiences ranging from students to scholars to the general public. It helps create history-centered schools and academic research centers, organizes seminars and enrichment programs for educators, partners with school districts to implement Teaching American History grants, produces print and electronic publications and traveling exhibitions, and sponsors lectures by eminent historians. The Institute also sponsors awards including the Lincoln, Frederick Douglass and George Washington Book Prizes and offers fellowships for scholars to work in history archives, including the Gilder Lehrman Collection.

Preserve America is a White House initiative that encourages greater shared knowledge about the nation's past and increased local participation in preserving the country's cultural and natural heritage assets.

Heath Brook students compete in Destination Imagination

TEWKSBURY - Students of the Heath Brook Elementary School competed this past Saturday at the Triton Regional School in Destination Imagination. They placed 3rd in a group of 14 other elementary teams.

The team performed a CSI (crime scene investigation) short play that they wrote, built scenery, made props and costumes, under the watchful eyes of head coach Jeanine Tamboli and assistant Susan Fallon. The team also had to perform an instant challenge task, which was also added to their score.

YMCA enrolling for summer camp

READING - The Burbank YMCA, located at 36 Arthur B. Lord Drive in Reading, is now enrolling for its multiple summer camps serving children ages 3-14. Camps operate from 9-4 pm with an extended day option. All camps are licensed and follow strict guidelines to ensure safety and optimal fun! Camp is one week in length, but limited two and three options are available.

New for 2007 is Conquistadors Camp. This trip based camp is for those entering sixth grade up to grade 9. Adventures like water country, local beaches, museums and much more will take place each day. Campers will also partake in a service project each week to help with leadership skills. This camp has limited enrollment and will surely fill quickly.

Camp Wakanda is a waterfront camp perfect for the wilderness type. Located on the beautiful Stiles Pond in Boxford, days consist of archery, sports, crafts, boating and traditional camping adventures. Campers are transported from bus stops in Stoneham, Wakefield, Reading, North Reading and Wilmington and returned around 5pm.

Camp Wilbur is a building based camp located at the Burbank YMCA serving ages 5-11. Crafts, sports, group games, music, computers and weekly entertainers are part of the camper's experience. Swimming lessons and free swim occurs every day. It is a fabulous summer experience with the safety of being based in a classroom.

The YMCA also has 2-hour enrichment camps, leadership development camps and sports camp. There is something for everyone and every taste.

For more information, please contact the YMCA at 781-944-9622 or log onto the website www.ymcaboston.org. In addition, there will be a camp open house on Saturday, April from 9-noon at the Burbank YMCA.

The Jessica Prouty Band to perform

Wilmington resident member of the band

It is fitting that a band of young musicians debut their new band at a scholarship foundation that supports other young musicians in their quest for a musical career. The Jessica Prouty Band, featuring Wilmington resident, Cody Nilsen, 14, (lead guitar), and Marblehead's Jessica Prouty, 13, (lead singer, guitar), Cam Pelkey, 13, (drums), Jordan Calixto, 12, (bass), and Swampscott resident Andy Covino, 12, (keys) are part of a who's who of Boston bands to support this cause, including the Brian Maes Band, Razen Kayne, Shire, Hard Drive and the Mystery Tramps.

The Stephen Camello Scholarship Foundation (www.scmf.org) is in honor of a well-known musician in the Boston community. A guitar virtuoso, Stephen was dedicated and shared his gift with all, including young people. Stephen Camello was a graduate of Saugus High School in the class of 1973. The foundation supports students who choose music as a major if they are from high schools in Lynn, Saugus, or Peabody.

The Jessica Prouty Band will debut three original songs that show their depth and that will be featured on the upcoming CD on the Briola Record label due out this summer. So Long, Saving My Sanity, and Havin' a Great Time feature a "classic alternative metal" sound that ranges from a soulful ballad, to hard-edged mix, to a "great time" rock anthem. That same day the band's website will go live at www.jessicaprouty.com where you can learn more about the band.

The event will be held Thursday, April 5, from 7 pm to 11 pm at the Prince Restaurant on Route 1 in Saugus. Most children don't have school the next day.

Tickets are $20 each and include free cheese pizza and soft drinks. Raffles will be held as well. For more information, please call Katherine Prouty at 781-631-9943.

Actress Cynthia Nixon lends her star power to the Lukemia and Lymphoma Society

WAKEFIELD - Actress Cynthia Nixon is lending her face and fame to help The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society raise awareness for one of its key campaigns, Light The Night® Walk, an annual fundraiser held each fall in approximately 250 communities in the United States and Canada.

The walk celebrates and commemorates the lives of people touched by leukemia, lymphoma, Hodgkin's disease and myeloma and raises money to support critical research and provide education and services to patients and their families. Participants at the walks carry illuminated balloons - white for survivors, red for supporters. In Boston, the walk will take place on Sunday, September 23, 2007 at Lake Quannapowitt.

As national spokesperson for the 2007 Light The Night Walk, Nixon has filmed a public service announcement and lent her image to brochures, posters, email blasts and other publicity materials.

"The Society's mission is very close to my heart and I am honored to be the national spokesperson for Light The Night," Nixon said. "While tremendous leaps have been made discovering new and improved treatments, until a cure is found there is still much work to be done."

Nixon became familiar with the urgent need to support blood cancer research because of friendships she made through her acting career. She performed in the Pulitzer Prize winning play "The Heidi Chronicles" written by Wendy Wasserstein, who succumbed to lymphoma just over a year ago. While playing the role of Miranda Hobbes in "Sex and the City" she came to know the actor Evan Handler, who played Harry Goldenblatt, the lawyer husband of Charlotte York, Kristin Davis's character. Handler is also a leukemia survivor.

To find out more about forming a team or participating in a Light The Night walk, contact the Massachusetts Chapter of The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society at 800-688-6572, or visit www.lightthenight.org or call 877-LTN-WALK.

About The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society

The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society, headquartered in White Plains, NY, with 66 chapters in the United States and Canada, is the world's largest voluntary health organization dedicated to funding blood cancer research and providing education and patient services. The Society's mission: Cure leukemia, lymphoma, Hodgkin's disease and myeloma, and improve the quality of life of patients and their families. Since its founding in 1949, the Society has invested more than $486 million in research specifically targeting leukemia, lymphoma and myeloma. Last year alone, the Society made 4.2 million contacts with patients, caregivers and health-care professionals.

For more information about blood cancer, visit www.LLS.org or call the Society's Information Resource Center (IRC), a call center staffed by master's level social workers, nurses and health educators who provide information, support and resources to patients and their families and caregivers. IRC information specialists are available at (800) 955-4572, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. ET.

Palmer and Allan named Hats Off recipients

TEWKSBURY - Kristen Palmer and Jeffrey Allan, seniors at Tewksbury Memorial High School, have been nominated this month for the Tewksbury Rotary Club's March 2007 Hats Off Luncheon. The Hat's Off program is funded and supported by both the Rotary Club and Tewksbury Memorial High School. This prestigious award is designed to recognize students who have distinguished themselves, through co-curriculars, academic achievement, and community involvement.

Jeffrey Allan, son of Jane Allan and Jeffrey Allan Sr., has certainly distinguished himself academically, through his high grades in an extensive Advanced Placement Biology course, his 3.4 grade point average, and the receipt of a total of six Silver Renaissance Card Awards. However, it is the extra-curriculars, including Chess Club, Junior Classical League, Robotics Team, and Community of Hope, which truly distinguish him. In addition to these clubs, Allan has participated in the TMHS Golf team as well as Lacrosse team for three years.

Allan is currently a member of the Community of Hope, a Catholic organization helping people in need throughout the community. Within this organization, he has helped with fundraising efforts such as car washes, bottle drives, and food pantry volunteering. There are not many teenagers who spend their free time collecting for foundations such as "Make A Wish", and helping at homeless shelters. Along with participating in a 25 mile Hunger Ride, and the 9/11 Memorial walk, he also participated in the School Committee sponsored "Get Out and Vote".

The drive and determination that Allan has shown through his high school career began very young. Beginning when he was just eight years old, he participated in the Tewksbury Youth Baseball, Soccer and Basketball Teams, and the Youth Rod and Gun Club Team. He was also a member of the YABA Bowling League, the PAL Wrestling Team, and Cub Scouts. His swimming lesson started at age three and lead him to pursue a rigorous life-guard qualification test, including swimming 25 consecutive laps. He also received his boating license in 2002 and has taken many first aid courses.

As for the future, Ms. Cecily Markham, Allan's guidance counselor and the person who nominated Allan, states that "Jeffrey is an outstanding and caring individual...a confident leader and a compassionate young man who hopes to follow in his father's footsteps and become a dentist." Currently, Jeffrey is employed at Nashoba Valley as a ski instructor. He will most likely attend college at either University of New Hampshire or UMASS Amherst in the fall and pursue a degree in dentistry. Along with acceptance into these fine institutions, he also got in to St. Anselm, Assumption, and Sacred Heart. Allan may attend graduate school at Temple or Tufts University after gaining his bachelors degree.

Of the Hats Off Award, Allan says, "[On the day of the lunch], I was honored to be in the presence of greatness, and great chefs - I really liked the chicken. Honestly, I've never gotten many awards." Allan also says that along with his parents, his biggest influences include Mr. Hickey, his guidance counselor, Mr. Shanley, his internship mentor, and Mr. Carpenito, his lacrosse coach. Allan is not only dedicated when it comes to school and academics, but excellently motivated; and this drive will certainly create nothing but opportunities for him in the future.

Both students were honored at a Rotary Club Luncheon on March 1 at the Tewksbury Country Club.

Tewksbury Senior Topics

A note of thanks is extended to all those people who patronized the Senior Center Yard Sale last Saturday. Many thanks are also extended to the many event workers, the kitchen crew and the Tewksbury Hospital Administration.

Congratulations to Margaret Bowen who was the winner of the drawing.

A group of Senior Citizens will meet at the White House this Friday, March 30th, at 1:00 p.m. to make tissue paper flowers for the up-coming Memorial Day Parade Float. All "hands" are welcome.

Due to a State two week training seminar being held at the Tewksbury Hospital Old Chapel, schedule changes have been made in the COA Tuesday line dance class and Thursday aerobics class. These changes are as follows:

- Tuesday morning Country Line dancers are reminded that class will NOT be held on April 3rd and April 10th. The class will resume on Tuesday, April 17th at its regular time.

- Thursday morning Aerobic exercise class will be held at the Tewksbury Rod and Gun Club on April 5th and April 12th at the regular time of 10:15 a.m. On Thursday, April 19th, the Aerobic class will return to the Tewksbury Hospital Old Chapel.

Seniors should note that the Senior Center will be closed next Friday, April 6th.

Dr. Smith's Senior Center Podiatry Clinic has been rescheduled for next SATURDAY, APRIL 7th. Appointment times will remain the same. However, it is asked that one come to the Senior Center about 10-15 minutes earlier just in case the doctor is running ahead of time. At present the clinic is full. However, a waiting list has been started.

At present the Council on Aging AARP Volunteer Tax Assistants are booked up through April 13th. If one has not had his/her taxes prepared as yet, it is suggested that one call the Tewksbury Library at 978-640-4490 to see if the Library Tax Assistant has any openings.

The Thursday, April 12th, Foxwood day trip is now full. A waiting list is being compiled. Those traveling on this trip are reminded that departure on the day of the trip is 7:00 a.m. from the Livingston Street Playground Parking lot.

On Friday, April 13th, a Senior Center "Cootie Party" will be held at the White House. The activity will begin at 12:45 p.m. All are welcome.

The Fund Raising Committee for the furnishing of the new Senior Center is hosting a "Roaring Twenties Kick-Off" Dinner and Dance on May 4, 2007 at the Tewksbury Country Club from 6-11 p.m. The evening will include dinner, entertainment by the Silver Tones Band, Charleston dance lessons, photos, silent auction and much, much more...so, shine up your dance shoes, work on your Charleston and gather up some roaring twenties attire for the evening. Ticket may be obtained for a donation of $50 per person at the Senior Center or by calling Joan Unger at 978-851-6296 or Linda Brabant at 978-851-4243. Public support is welcome and encouraged.

Upcoming Red Hat Carnation Belles' events are:

(1) The "Sounds of Concord" and out to eat on Saturday, April 21st at $33 per person; and,

(2) Lunch and the musical "Crazy for You" at the North Shore Theatre on Saturday, May 12th at cost of $64 per person.

Tickets for these Red Hat events are limited. Therefore, Belles are encouraged to obtain tickets early.

Have a pleasant week and God Bless America.

Seussical the Musical will be presented on Saturday, March 24 at 8:00pm, Sunday, March 25 at 4:00pm, Friday, March 30 at 8:00pm and Saturday, March 31 at 8:00pm at the Gavin Middle School Auditorium, 525 Main Street, Wakefield. Tickets are $16 for adults and $14 for students and seniors. Tickets are available online at www.wakefieldrep.org or by calling 781-245-1173.

Included in the cast are CJ Pennington of Bridgewater as The Cat in the Hat and Mei Lu Barnum of Wilmington as JoJo/Cindy.

Sorrentino makes Dean's List at West Point

WEST POINT, N.Y. - Cadet Michael A. Sorrentino Jr., son of Michael and Sally Sorrentino of Wilmington, has been named to the Dean's List for the Fall Semester covering August through December, at the U.S. Military Academy.

To earn this honor, a cadet must maintain a 3.0 average in all courses.

Sorrentino graduated from Wilmington High School in 2006. He plans to graduate from West Point in 2010 and be commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

The mission of the U.S. Military Academy is to educate, train, and inspire the Corps of Cadets so that each graduate is a commissioned leader of character committed to the values of Duty, Honor, Country and prepared for a career of professional excellence and service to the Nation as an officer in the United States Army.

Anthony Palmisano heads Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley, Inc.

Anthony C. Palmisano of North Andover has joined Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley, Inc. as director of development bringing 20 years of marketing, communications, sponsorship and public relations experience to the agency. Prior to joining Elder Services, Palmisano was a senior account manager with Trinity One Marketing where he specialized in sponsorship marketing for a myriad of clients including the Boston Celtics, New Hampshire Fisher Cats and The Boston Herald. He has extensive media experience, having previously worked for WEEI Sports Radio, Fox Sports Net NE and Sporting News. Tony has a bachelor's degree from Loyola College in Baltimore, and an MBA from Georgetown University. He is also currently serving as an executive council member of the St. Alfio Society in Lawrence, MA.

"There are tremendous challenges facing elders today. My goal is to develop a broader awareness for the role Elder Services plays in elder advocacy", said Palmisano.

"Traveling the Road of Alzheimer's Disease"

Alzheimer's Disease affects up to 50 percent of people older than 85, and the risk increases with age. Although the first symptoms of Alzheimer's disease are often confused with the changes that take place in normal aging, it's important to remember that Alzheimer's disease is not a normal part of aging.

"Traveling the Road of Alzheimer's Disease" is a free, interactive and informational workshop that will be presented on Saturday, April 28, 2007 from 8:00 am - 1:00 pm at the Wyndham Andover with a panel of medical, legal and social experts in the field of Alzheimer's, Elder Services of the Merrimack Valley and the Merrimack Valley Alzheimer's Partnership sponsor this workshop.

The conference is for professionals and families of those caring for victims of Alzheimer's to provide information on the latest in both treatment and research. You will find the resources you need to recognize when there is a problem, to understand behaviors commonly seen and how best to communicate with individuals with Alzheimer's Disease. A question and answer session will immediately follow the presentation. Care for those with Alzheimer's is available, free of charge on the day of the conference. Coffee and pastry provided.

Call Barbara Brandt-Saret, 800-892-0890, x 347, for a registration brochure. Deadline to reserve your space is April 19th.

Woburn Mayor likes I-93/I-95 Interchange plans

Reading residents not so enthusiastic

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

WOBURN - Woburn Mayor Tom McLaughlin voiced his support for the options presented for changes in the design of the I-93/I-95 interchange while many Reading residents sought changes in the two options that were presented at last week's final Public Informational Meeting of the I-93/I-95 Interchange Transportation Study Task Force.

At the outset of the meeting, Mayor McLaughlin said, "Woburn finds itself supporting the two major proposals before you for consideration."

However, many residents of the South Street (Reading) area voiced their concerns over the affects of dust, snow removal, and noise from a fly-over that will come close to their properties.

It was noted that the South Street area in Reading would be the most adversely impacted by the new designs being proposed.

Reading Selectman Rick Schubert, a member of the Task Force said, "The weakest link or area of potential impact was the northwest quadrant (facing South Street). This is the area of most negative impact."

He noted that he has received requests from "some Reading residents" to have the proposed ramp moved further to the left.

However, Executive Office of Transportation Manager of Statewide Planning Bob Frey, the Task Force coordinator, said that the ramps could not be moved for safety reasons.

Task Force Design Team Leader James Purdy said that many options had been looked at before these two designs were proposed.

In some cases the components of one potential design change would be combined with other components from a different design plan to come up with a totally different plan.

"We started with 20 components (of highway design changes) and came up with the two presented tonight," Purdy said.

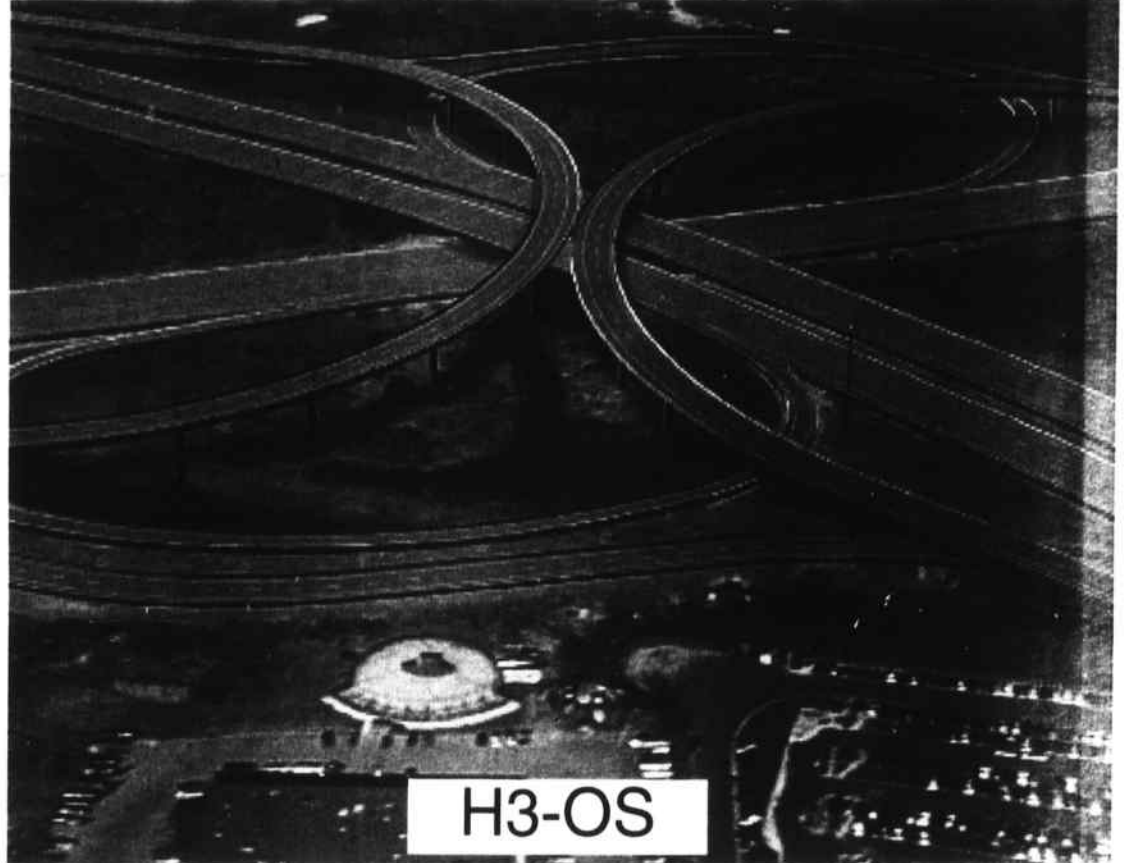

The designs, labeled H3-OS and H3-US, both call for the removal of the northwest and southeast loops at the present interchange.

In the OS plans the loops would be replaced with two fly-over ramps and in the US plans the new ramps would be a combination of flyover and "flyunder" ramps.

Purdy, a senior consultant with the Louis Berger Group, told the assembly of over 100 residents, business people and political leaders that the Town of Reading would lose some town-owned land for the construction and a sliver of land would be taken from the South Street residential property closest to the construction.

However, it was stressed that no houses would be taken by eminent domain proceedings as was proposed in the original design plans from 2001, which was the stimulus for forming the present task force.

The City of Woburn stands to gain quite a bit from the implementation of either the OS or

H3-OS

US option. They both call for changes at the Washington Street overpass and at the Washington Street on-ramp to Route 128.

Both plans also call for an interim on-ramp to Route 1-93 south being built from the end of Cedar Street, Woburn's industrial park area just south of the present interchange.

Another benefit from the plans would be better access to the Anderson Regional Transportation Center in North Woburn. This could take the shape of a pedestrian walkway from Woburn's industrial park in the New Boston Street area.

It was also noted that both plans include the use of a plan labeled H-1.

This plan calls for the Cedar Street on-ramp and it also calls for the construction of a fourth lane along Route 128 north from the end of the present fourth lane (south of the Main Street exit) to the Route 129 exit in Wakefield.

On the southbound side a shorter fourth lane would be constructed just south of the Route 28 exit to a point just south of the present interchange.

It was noted that the plans must still face serious scrutiny from the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection and from MassHighway before they can be implemented.

The Environmental and Feasibility study process could take several more years and will include citizen input throughout the process.

At the outset of the meeting, new Secretary of Transportation Bernard Cohen said, "This is a very significant project. It is definitely up there in relation to impact and size."

Cohen noted that the current interchange has many safety, congestion, and other problems. He also praised the Task Force for its work and noted that the work could be used as a model for other large highway construction projects in the state.

Town loses Maple Meadow appeal

Appeals Court confirmed that Town acted unlawfully, says Spinazola attorney

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The Town has been unsuccessful in its recent bid to appeal the Land Court's ruling that the town's height restricting by-law does not apply to the Maple Meadow Landfill (MML). Options for going forward will be considered.

MML, which was owned and operated by Clarence Spinazola, accepted municipal solid waste from the 1950's until the state ordered it to close in 1976. In 2000, the Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) ordered that the site be capped.

Wilmington's by-law, which was passed during its 2003 Annual Town Meeting, limits the height of any landfill to no more than 40 feet.

According to the Land Court ruling, MML, which is located off of Main Street on the Woburn town line, was a legally preexisting nonconforming use of the property prior to the enactment of the by-law. The ruling further found that, regardless of the preexisting nonconforming status, the by-law is impermissible as it frustrates and conflicts with State law.

"this court finds that (Wilmington's by-law) interferes with the capping and closure of the Maple Meadow Landfill and frustrates an otherwise lawful activity undertaken (in) accordance with State law," Land Court Judge Leon Lombardi stated in his ruling.

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen voted unanimously in February 2006 to appeal Lombardi's Land Court decision.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts Appeals Court, however, affirmed the Land Court judgment on Wednesday, March 21st.

The Appeals Court stated in its affirmation of the judgment that the bylaw may not apply since it is undisputed that the landfill had a height of more than 40 feet - and was lawfully in existence prior to the passage of the by-law, and indeed, prior to the first publication of a public hearing regarding a proposed height restriction.

Wilmington Town Manager Michael Cairra was unaware of the Appeals Court decision when contacted by the Town Crier on Monday morning. Selectmen Raymond Lepore, Suzanne Sullivan, and Michael Newhouse were likewise unaware of the situation. According to Newhouse, it would not be uncommon or unlikely for several days to elapse before counsel might be made aware of the decision. Wilmington's Town Counsel is Paul DeRensis of Deutsch, Williams, Brooks, DeRensis & Holland P.C.

"I was with Paul at a legal seminar and dinner on Thursday night and he didn't mention it, so I'm sure it just hadn't gotten to him yet," Newhouse said.

Cairra called the Crier back approximately an hour after the initial call to relate that in the interim he had received word from DeRensis' office regarding the decision. He refrained from offering comment on the decision, however, without further consultation with counsel.

According to DeRensis, his firm is currently reviewing whether to advise the town to appeal the ruling further.

"The next step could be to ask the three-judge panel to reconsider and/or to ask the Supreme Judicial Court to exercise further review, which is discretionary with that court," DeRensis said.

Citing the 2001 case of Cohasset Heights, Ltd. v. Zoning Bd. of Cohasset, the Appeals Court notes that a "zoning by-law shall not apply to uses lawfully in existence before first notice of publication of notice of public hearing on such by-law."

DeRensis acted as Cohasset's Town Counsel during that litigation, but considers that situation to be completely different from the issue facing Wilmington. The Cohasset case, according to DeRensis, surrounded an instance in which Cohasset issued a special permit to a landfill owner, but the owner failed to record it before a change in the relevant by-law, thereby relinquishing grandfathering rights.

"The Land Court held that it did, but the Appeals Court disagreed, holding that the issuance of the permit was the important act, not the procedural failure to record it," DeRensis said. "The case has nothing to do with the merits of the dispositive question in our Wilmington case, which is whether the state landfill closure statute preempts a municipality from enacting a zoning regulation affecting the landfill. The Cohasset case was not cited by the Land Court in its ruling and was not cited by the plaintiffs in their brief to the Appeals Court."

This is not the only lawsuit centering on Wilmington's height restriction by-law. The Clarence Spinazola Estate, represented by Riemer & Braunstein LLP, has filed a civil suit alleging civil rights violations against the town as a result of the by-law.

"The Appeals Court confirmed that the Town acted unlawfully in enacting the By-Law, which was intended to and did in fact interfere with the capping and closure of the landfill," said Peter Sutton of Riemer & Braunstein. "Now that the By-Law has been overturned as unconstitutional, the Trust hopes that the Town will refrain from any further such efforts to impede the regulated activity at the site, and instead work with Mrs. Spinazola (Clarence Spinazola's widow) to undo and to mitigate the significant damage it has caused her. Mrs. Spinazola continues to be the innocent victim in the Town's differences with Mr. Hannon and the DEP."

Without the funds necessary to cap the landfill, Clarence Spinazola contracted Massachusetts Environmental Associates (MEA), with Patrick Hannon as President, to conduct the closure. MEA funded the project by accepting, for a fee, soils from the Big Dig and other construction projects throughout eastern Massachusetts and importing them to MML. The soil being imported was considered contaminated under Massachusetts General Law 21E, but was deemed safe by Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). The project was mandated by, and regulated by, DEP.

Town activists and Town officials have maintained that far more soil has been imported than was necessary. Between 2001 and 2002, MEA brought 1,368,000 tons of materials onto the site.

According to DeRensis, the appeal is just one of several avenues being pursued to address the concerns of MML.

"We have in place a multi-faceted strategy to deal with the Maple Meadow Landfill," DeRensis said. "The height issue, for example, is also being pursued via a general law change via the General Court to allow such limitations separate and apart from the lawsuit. The town has adopted other requirements outside of zoning to protect the citizens of the town, and of course the town is working with DEP to address the future of this landfill. The height by-law in issue in the Appeals Court decision pre-dated our involvement with Wilmington, but we see that it served a valuable purpose for the community: it enabled the voters of the town to send a strong message that the state's plans for the landfill were not acceptable to the community."

The landfill height by-law, which began as Article 48 on the warrant of the 2003 Town Meeting, did not receive unanimous support. The Board of Health, Planning Board, and Finance Committee, all opposed the article due to what they felt was a lack of engineering support for the height restriction.

"The Board of Health voted unanimously to disapprove this article. We agree with everything but the exact height," Libby Sabounjian, Chairperson of Wilmington's Board of Health, stated during the meeting.

All opponents argued that 40 feet was an arbitrary height with no engineering facts to support it.

Michael Newhouse, Town Counsel at the time, argued that the by-law would stand little chance of holding up in court, if challenged.

Betty Bigwood, petitioner of the article, argued that tons of contaminated soil, soil, which according to Bigwood, was too toxic to remain in the vicinity of Big Dig workers, was being trucked into Wilmington with the ostensible purpose of capping the existing landfill. The MML, argued proponents of the article, sits right on top of a town aquifer and could not be allowed to accept further importation of contaminated soil. Bigwood pointed out at the time that the town of Cohasset had already successfully adopted an identical plan.

Bigwood has credited John McNabb, Chairman of the Cohasset Board of Water Commissioners and a policy director of the non-profit group Clean Water Action, as being instrumental in helping Wilmington activists formulate the height restriction by-law and the soil contamination by-law.

Wilmington Middle School Library...

More Than Just Books

By ERIK ALATALO

It may be home to thousands of books, but the Wilmington Middle School library offers students many other educational opportunities, also. The library has hundreds of videos, books on tape, over 20 computers, databases, a library media integration specialist and a fulltime librarian on staff to help students expand their knowledge.

Brenda Galvin, the school librarian since the middle school opened, believes that the library and its resources are extremely important for the students and the staff. "Once people get past the books in the library," offered Galvin, "they realize the vast amount of tools that the library offers all visitors. We have the OPAC automated system that is a card catalogue for quick access to materials, educational videos, computer centers and areas for teachers to conduct classes."

Beyond being a librarian, Galvin uses the library to teach media classes to the students, also. "The library is the perfect place to teach the media course as it is designed to teach students how to properly use dictionaries, almanacs and encyclopedias, how to find books using the Dewey Decimal system, how to use the OPAC system, how to properly use the Internet as a research tool and how to gather and use research material. Used properly, the library is a multi-faceted tool that can expand a student's intelligence and learning base," said Galvin.

Along with Galvin helping students and teachers to use the library's many resources, Brenda Lomanno offers technology help as the school's Library Media Integration Specialist. In this position, Lomanno helps to support teachers and students with the use of technology. "My job has a wide range of responsibilities within the library ranging from working with teachers and students to create brochures and power point presentations," offered Lomanno, "to developing lists of kid-safe websites that can be used for in-school projects. Our library offers technological tools that will help students to develop the needed skills to enter today's technology based environments."

With the different types of educational tools offered in the Wilmington Middle School library, students have the opportunities to develop the necessary skills to advance their education and prepare for the future. "The middle school library helps the students to extend or expand what they learn in classes and gives them the chance to continue to work on certain assignments. It is a center to develop and practice skills that will help them become better students," said Galvin.

Erik Alatalo is a sixth grader in Discovery House at Wilmington Middle School. He is the latest student to take advantage of a Town Crier correspondence program initiated by Wilmington Middle School teacher Michael Mahoney, and enthusiastically agreed to by the Town Crier. We look forward to bringing our readers monthly installments of the series, in which Wilmington students in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades will report on the news of the day. Students interested in participating are encouraged to contact Mr. Mahoney in Room 125.

Dean Smith on Dean's list, again!

Danversbank Assistant Vice President and Reading Branch Manager Susan Hubbard, Foster parent and DSS Ambassador Maria holding her adopted son Joseph.

Danversbank collects 1,000 Teddy Bears for DSS foster children

For four weeks starting on Valentine's Day, all Danversbank Branches accepted donations of new teddy bears. The Department of Social Services (DSS) places a new teddy bear in the backpack accompanying each child entering foster care. A teddy bear provides a sense of security, as it is often the only personal belonging a child has during this especially difficult time of transition. "Due to the tremendous support of our customers, Danversbank collected upwards of 1,000 teddy bears. The Bank looks forward to continuing this rewarding effort every year especially knowing the positive impact it has on children entering foster care," explained Danversbank President and CEO Kevin Bottomley.

In addition to the generous support of Danversbank's retail customers, several of the Bank's business customers also participated by collecting new teddy bears in the workplace. "It's a great project, happy to help, we love projects like this it makes everyone feel good," stated Jo-Ann and Galo

Emerson owners of Putnam Pantry. Jo-Ann and Galo Emerson delivered 50 brand new teddy bears to the Main Office in support of this DSS drive. Teachers, students and staff of the Northshore Education Consortium (NEC) also contributed. "We are thrilled to be able to help with such a great cause," said NEC Executive Director Robert L. Gass.

The Beverly Branch received a visit and donation of teddy bears from a student at Hamilton-Wenham High School who initiated a collection amongst her fellow classmates. "As a Foster Parent and Ambassador serving the Malden Office of DSS, I know firsthand that these teddy bear gifts will be warmly received by the children in foster care," expressed Maria who recently adopted a foster child.

For more information on Foster Parenting and Adoption please contact one of the following recruiters: Carla King at 978-825-3862 with the Cape Ann DSS office, Mitzi Bramhall at 617-520-8700 with the Cambridge DSS office, Michelle Roach at

Share the beauty of the north of Boston community

Here's an opportunity to share the beauty of the North of Boston, MA community with others less fortunate: Volunteer for The Fresh Air Fund and host an inner-city child. This summer, join thousands of volunteer host families in 13 northeastern states and Canada as they open their hearts and homes to New York City children from underprivileged communities through The Fund's Friendly Town program. The Friendly Town program allows youngsters from New York City to experience simple summer pleasures like skipping rocks across a lake, smelling newly cut grass and making new suburban and country friends.

A Fresh Air host parent explains why her family participates, "Something as simple as swinging on a swing without shoes made our Fresh Air child happy down to his core. Right then and there I remember thinking how much my family and I take for granted." Imagine summertime without swimming in a pool, playing in the backyard, or gazing at the stars. Since 1877, The Fresh Air Fund has provided more than 1.7 million inner-city children with the opportunity to enjoy these simple pleasures. You can help us give the gift of simple summertime pleasures to more New York City children by volunteering to host for The Fresh Air

"He was a soldier"

have spent time with John recently. John took leave and met the family during their vacation in Florida. His father told him how worried they were about him in Iraq.

"He said he was sorry for putting us through this," John recalled, "But he was most worried about something happening to his buddies while he was away on leave."

It was all about the team. John's team in the Army is Company C, 2nd Battalion with 12th Cavalry Regiment, 4th Brigade Combat Division, based out of Fort Hood, Texas.

In addition to John, three other soldiers from his unit died in the blast.

"Johnny died with his best friend," John, Sr. said.

John and Bill Davis, 26, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, were inseparable, John, Sr. said.

"(Bill)'s 26-years old and married with a daughter and another one on the way."

The wife of John's Battalion Commander paid her respects to John's parents and relayed a message from her husband. She told John, Sr. that her husband was very sorry that he did not bring John, Jr. home safely. "I told her that Johnny would not want them to mourn him," John, Sr. said. "I told her to tell them to get themselves together and don't let themselves get killed daydreaming."

Family and friends have helped John's parents, John, Sr. and Pamela, and his sister, Britney, get through these difficult days. And the efforts of Wilmington Veterans' Agent Lou Cimaglia and U.S. Army Casualty Officer SFC. Kathleen Winn have been invaluable. Winn and Cimaglia have been with the family nearly 24-hours a day since the family was notified.

"Sgt. Winn and Lou have been unbelievable," John, Sr. said.

John, Sr. and his family have been impressed and honored by the outpouring of sympathy and respect from the community and beyond. As they were leaving Hanscom Airforce Base in Bedford with their son's body, people were lined up all along the streets in respect.

"They didn't have to do that, there was no one that told them to do that," John Sr. said. "It made me proud, proud to be an American."

From Hanscom, the family was escorted to Nichols Funeral Home on Middlesex Avenue in Wilmington by police cruisers and police motorcycles from numerous departments all over the state.

Likewise, State Police and local police departments from all over the state participated in the funeral procession on Tuesday. Dozens of officers rode, while dozens more marched.

The funeral liturgy held at St. Thomas of Villanova Church began just moments after the arrival of Massachusetts Governor Deval Patrick. Following the mass, John Landry, Jr.'s flag draped casket was delivered to Wildwood Cemetery by a horse-drawn caisson as onlookers packed the sidewalks to pay their respects. On its way to Wildwood Cemetery, the procession passed under a mammoth United States flag spanning Middlesex Avenue and being held up by the ladders of Wilmington and Lowell fire department engines.

At the gravesite, the deceased was honored with the military tradition of a 3-volley salute, in which seven riflemen each fire three volleys, a helicopter fly-over, the playing of taps, and a bagpiper. Military personnel folded the flag from the casket and presented it to John's mother.

Following the graveside service, the family celebrated John's life at the Knights of Columbus.

"Family meant a lot to him," John, Sr. said. "He was just such a caring guy. I don't have a single bad memory of him - there was no age that he was difficult for us."

John, Jr. was proud to serve in Iraq, and he was proud to be working alongside the Iraq Army.

"These guys are just like us," John, Jr. told his father. "They just want their country back."

And John was proud to help in that effort. He was proud to be doing his job.

"He wasn't a politician," John, Sr. said. "He was a soldier."

Cheerleaders rise to the top again

By JENNIFER PETIGNE
Sports Correspondent

Toward the end of the first half at a recent Wilmington High School boys basketball game, the spirited student section could be heard chanting, "Ours are better!" The funny thing was, the boy's team had cleared the court for a brief time out. Instead, the students were applauding the talented WHS cheerleaders.

It seems the entire town of Wilmington has finally caught on that the Wildcat cheerleaders are an impressive bunch. After winning both the Cape Ann League and North Regional cheering competitions, as well as coming in first in National competition, the girls went on to win the State Championship two weeks ago.

It was a sweet redemption for the girls and their coach Nancy Sullivan, whose attempts at winning the state title have ended unsuccessfully the past several years. As if this achievement wasn't impressive enough, the girls continued their winning streak at the New England Championships, again capturing first place.

The win capped off an undefeated season for the team, a feat that Coach Sullivan knows is quite difficult to accomplish in today's world of high school cheerleading.

"It's much more competitive these days," said Sullivan, who has been the head for eight years. "Training them properly, preparing for competition, it's a different world."

This winter season, the team worked for hours in practices on perfecting their cheering skills and increasing the difficulty of stunts and tumbling within their routine. While improving upon the technical aspects of cheering, Sullivan also worked to keep the routine entertaining and exciting to watch.

"I love the whole aspect, preparing the girls for games and competitions. I like the feeling I get watching them celebrate," Sullivan said.

Keeping 25 girls motivated and focused must be a difficult task, but Sullivan takes none of the credit. "They do it themselves. They are self-motivated. They are eager to get better and eager to make the whole team better," said Sullivan.

In sports, the team that stays together often wins together. It is no doubt that this Wilmington team is very close. Maggie Sorrentino, a senior co-captain who has been cheering for ten years, is quick to point out that the team's bond was one of her favorite parts of this season.

"Well, the fact that we were undefeated. And the team is really close," said Sorrentino.

Remaining close out of school and out of practice allows the team to build trust on the competition floor.

"They work well as a team. They push each other. It's pretty impressive," said Sullivan.

Cheerleading is not just about competing.

"I love the school spirit part of it," said Sorrentino.

Brittani Winn, a junior, who is the cheerleader during the games who really stands out with all of her power gymnastic moves, has been involved in cheerleading for nine years.

"When you're on the team you get to know the basketball players and the fans. I love it," said Winn. "The games are my favorite part."

Now at the end of their perfect season, the girls must prepare for next year. It is a bittersweet ending for the seniors.

"I'll miss the whole friendship of the team. It's an everyday thing. It will be a huge change to go from doing it everyday to not doing it anymore," said

Sorrentino. "I'll miss the team most," said Winn, when asked what she will grieve for most when the season ends.

Coach Sullivan already has high hopes for next season. "I hope to be able to do the same thing next year," said Sullivan.

With Opening Day on Monday, Town Crier Sports Editor Jamie Pote and intern Caitlin DeFerrari discuss the fate of the beloved Red Sox.

DEFERRARI: With Jonathan Papelbon returning as the closer, and Curt Schilling throwing like a true ace, I feel as if the Red Sox are armed with the best pitching staff in the country and that will be proven starting with Monday's season opener in Kansas City.

Aside from their collection of cannon arms, the team's infield for 2007 has stepped up. With the addition of lethal threat Julio Lugo on defense, the Sox are sure to stay on top. Jordan's furniture should be biting their nails, because the Red Sox are going all the way this year.

POTE: Cait, I do agree that the Red Sox have a shot at winning the AL East crown, but going all the way is a stretch. I think come October, I'll be watching the Detroit Tigers winning the World Series title on my hand-me-down couch.

Detroit has the depth at both the starting rotation and in the bullpen, and now have a lethal bat in the middle of the order in Gary Sheffield, not to mention a terrific manager in Jim Leyland.

I like the addition of Lugo for offense, but he plays defense like that "frizzy hair kid, Sanjaya Malakar sings from that awful show "American Idol." The Red Sox lack of depth is a concern to me. That was proven last year when Papelbon went down with his shoulder injury and Manny Ramirez went AWOL.

DEFERRARI: I wouldn't exactly call the Tigers a "lethal" threat to the Red Sox. With Sheffield pushing 40, let's be honest, how many golden years does he have left, especially coming off that wrist injury?

I don't think the Red Sox lack depth at all seeing how they have the power combination of Ortiz and Ramirez with J.D. Drew following close behind.

And Dice-K is absolutely untouchable. His endurance for pitching is like no other, and he's got plenty variety in his arm. He once pitched a 17-inning game. I'd love to see the Tigers' old-timer Kenny Rogers top that.

POTE: How is Dice-K absolutely untouchable when he hasn't thrown a MLB pitch yet? He has the potential to be an ace and could very well be everything as advertised, but success in spring training means nothing. Robinson Checo was "untouchable" during winter ball and spring training and his baseball career lasted as long as "The Macarena."

When Manny and Papelbon went down with his injuries last year, how did the Red Sox do? Need I say more? Yes the additions of Lugo and Drew help, but if Varitek and Coco struggle again and Pedroia is the next Lou Merloni, there will be ways to get around Manny and Big Papi.

One big injury to the Sox' starting staff or line-up and they are nothing but mediocre. The Tigers' have much more depth on their 25-man roster especially the pitching staff with guys like Jeremy Bonderman, Justin Verlander, Joel Zumaya and Fernando Rodney.

DEFERRARI: Jamie, you wait and see, Dice-K will be lights out with his gyroball and rubber arm. Just this past Monday he threw 104 pitches without giving up a hit. I wouldn't exactly call that "spring training luck."

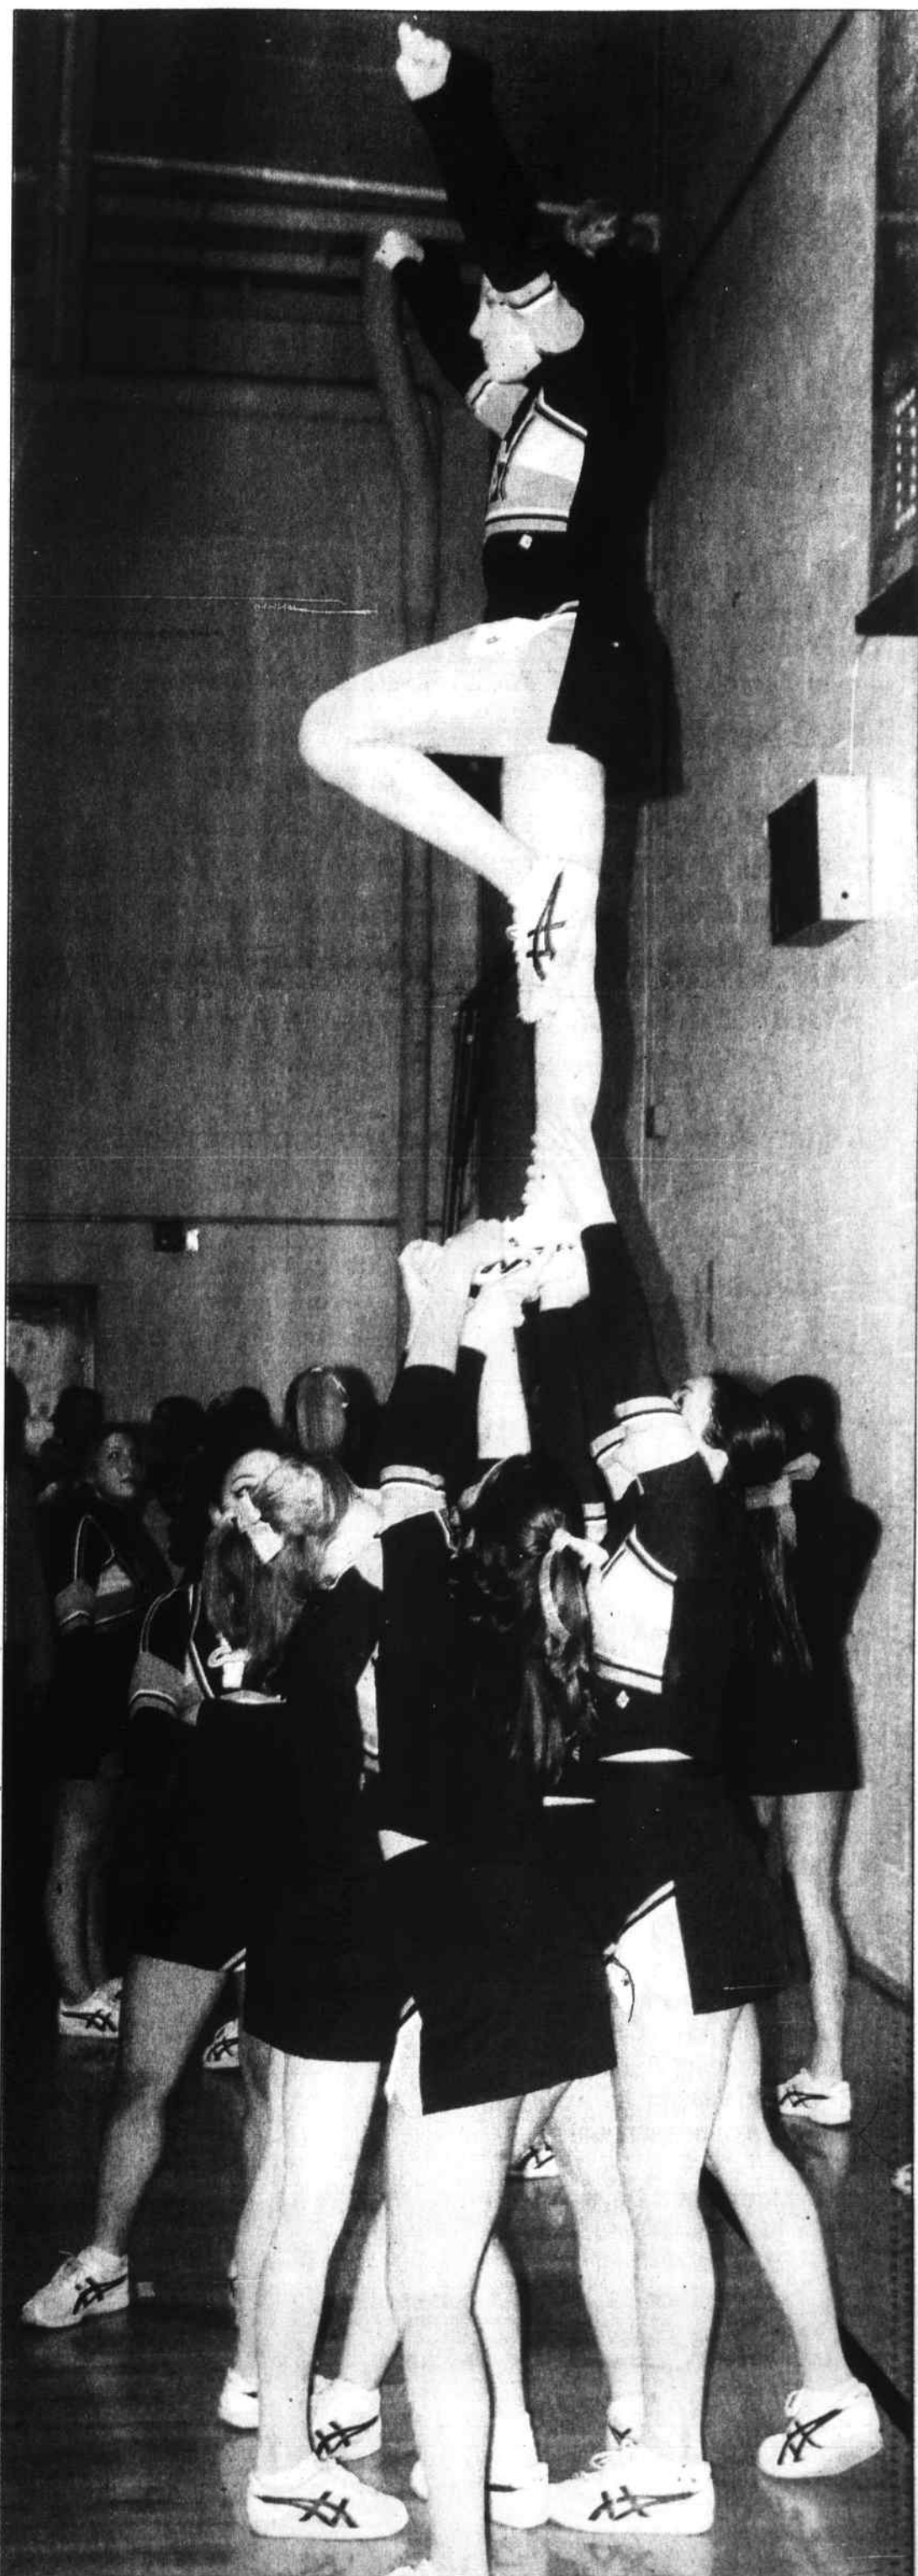

There are no rosters in Major League Baseball that have the depth to replace players like Papelbon and Ramirez. Manager Terry Francona did a terrific job last year of platooning players and he'll find a way to do it again and be successful if the Red Sox have some injuries.

And Robinson Checo was signed by Dan Duquette and not Theo Epstein. Need I say more?

My prediction is that this year the Tigers will be suffering one giant World Series hangover. Besides the core group of guys like Schilling, Papelbon, Manny, Ortiz and Drew, the young arms of Hansen, Lester and Delcarmen will help push the "mediocre" Sox into World Series winners.

POTE: I feel like I'm Bill Murray in "Groundhog Day" whenever there's conversation about "The Gyroball." Every day, every interview we have to hear about the GyroBall. Enough already.

Cait, I do think Dice-K will be just fine, but I don't think he'll lead the Red Sox to another World Series title this year. I think come October, I'll be - just like you and all of the other Red Sox fans - watching the Tigers beat the Dodgers from our living room couches.

The Wilmington High Basketball Cheerleaders have had quite the season as they won the Cape Ann League, North Regional, State, New England and National Championships.

Bring on the Wait for these survivors

"Your CT scan was clear, Rick. Your MRI was fine also - Adios." The words were spoken by my oncologist, Dr. David Ryan, now almost one month ago in the gastrointestinal cancer unit at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Dr. Ryan ends almost every bit of good news with 'Adios.' I love that word. It's my optimistic send-off, the 'buzz' word for success in my latest toe-to-toe tango with cancer. The dance continues. Probably for the rest of my life.

It's been 29 Cookie Jar Columns and 13 stories later since my return to writing a couple of hours a week at the Town Crier. September 6, 2006. That's a date that is worth remembering. Forty-two pieces written over a six-month period that has helped me wage war with The Wait.

By: Rick Cooke

You see, when you have been diagnosed with cancer, the battle doesn't cease to exist when the radiation and chemotherapy ends. You have to deal with The Wait. Every six months you are penciled in for the CT scan and the required blood work. Every three months I see Dr. Ryan and my crack radiation man, Dr. Thomas Hong at MGH. They are vital cogs in helping make The Wait work for me. I figure, why worry when I'm working with these guys? They care and so do I. It's a good system so far.

But, a big part of what makes that system work so well is that I either sit at a desk and write these columns for a couple of hours at the Town Crier office Monday afternoons, or when the gut-pain and the residual side effects from my summer spent in the MGH radiation room become too much, I can pen the columns from home. I believe it's called living. I cherish life. It's something that I will never let cancer take from me under any circumstances.

My cherished girlfriend Linda provides the emotional stability that makes The Wait bearable. When I first began writing this column back in September, she noted: "this stuff is kind of personal. You talk a lot about yourself." While I admitted that she was with an egomaniac (and a sometimes raving-lunatic), we both agreed that when you are a cancer survivor and you want to keep living your life, things have a tendency to get personal. It's not trite to utter the phrase: 'cancer touches everyone.' Many times it does. That's when things get interesting. Stories of surviving the disease and The Wait itself vary and are all worth the time that it takes to tell them.

Enough about me. There are other stories to tell of people dealing with this disease. Elizabeth Edwards. Jon Lester. Coby Carl. The wife of a presidential candidate, a young athlete and the son of a professional basketball coach. Three different lives. Three different ways of dealing with the diagnosis in relation to family obligations and survival. These people want to deal with cancer and continue living. The reaction to their responses to cancer, especially the vitriol spewed forth after John Edwards announced that his presidential campaign would continue after learning that his wife's cancer had spread to her hip, have been interesting and disturbing at the same time.

Some people might assume that athletes have cornered the market on courage, but they couldn't be more wrong.

Courage and tenacity come in all shapes and sizes. It is interesting where you might find it. It is also interesting, and somewhat sad, to see cynicism rearing its ugly head in the worst possible places. This was the case when John Edwards' wife went public with her 'incurable but treatable' cancer diagnosis this past week.

I'm always amazed when people attempt to tell others how to live their lives. I'm guilty of it, and I often need to remind myself to knock it off.

When you are a politician (or a politician's wife) or an athlete, everybody has an opinion. Everyone is ready, willing and able to pass judgment. The cynics can run roughshod, especially when it comes to the business of politics. My father said it best not long before he died: "dummy up and mind your own business". Ooops, there I go again, getting personal. Surviving cancer can do that to a guy. Let's just say that I can relate to what these three people are going through.

Would I ever tell them how to handle their respective diagnosis? Never. I'm not that smart. I'll leave all that stuff up to Doctors Ryan and Hong.

Sunday night, Elizabeth Edwards sat down for a chat with Katie Couric on '60 Minutes' and let the nation know that her family would continue living after meeting with the doctors - the same doctors that found a couple of what are called 'hot spots' on her most recent cat scan. For Elizabeth Edwards, The Wait had turned deadly. Now, her decision to go on living had fired up the questions of why all across the country. "I want to let people know that I'm living with cancer, not dying with cancer," she told Couric. "Everybody's going to die, I just pretty much know what I'm going to die from."

The cynics took aim. Her announcement was politically motivated. The Edwards' were telling this story to garner votes. Think about the children. Think about adjusting your lifestyle so cancer could swamp the family like some sickening tidal wave. Think about all those sympathy votes.

My chemotherapy and radiation made me sick. The thought that these people should pack it in and herd their young children into the nearest closet sent me searching for the nearest barf bag.

"I can't let cancer win," Edwards said Sunday. "I'm going to keep on with my life. I don't expect to live my life any differently. We won't let cancer control our lives. We are not in denial. We are all different and we all have a finite period of time on this earth. We learned this in 1996 with our son."

The Edwards' had a young son who died in a car crash. They now have children ages 6 and 8. Edwards continued: "the most important thing you can give your children is wings. Teach them about life."

No athlete or coach that I've ever come across could have said it any better. You still want to tell these people how to live their lives? Even the worst cynic among us, or the people who say that a President Edwards' ability to campaign or govern would be compromised, are simply lacking the life experience that comes with dealing with a deadly disease.

This is after all, a sports column. Kinda like WEEI's Dennis and Callahan is a 'sports' show, with a healthy dollop of political commentary thrown in just to aggravate me.

Last week, Callahan, who serves as a lightning rod for the political right, weighed in on Edwards' announcement. He asked, rather pointedly, just what the political motivation was? This style has made Callahan a lot of money and crowned his program as the king of the sports talk airwaves nationally. Callahan's question was surprising given the amount of time and energy he generously devotes to the Jimmy Fund. Does he think that those cancer kids should stop living and chuck all of their ambitions out the window? Should they stop dreaming? Should they 'dummy up' and go away? If they were Republicans would they be more admirable for their courage?

Which brings this conversation around to the professional athlete and the coach's son. Monday afternoon pitcher Jon Lester will probably not be part of the opening day roster when the Boston Red Sox begin their 2007 season on the road against the Kansas City Royals. The team will probably send the 23-year-old lefthander to Pawtucket to start the season as he recovers from his treatment for anaplastic large cell lymphoma. To say that Lester might be refreshed by his return to spring training and baseball would be an understatement. After a summer dominated by his diagnosis, then chemotherapy, then his own version of The Wait, chucking a baseball has to be nice.

Jon was just two rooms away from me at MGH last summer. Who would think that the worlds of a professional athlete and this ink-stained wretch twice his age would have anything in common? Yes, cancer can do that to people.

Last week the Boston Herald's Karen Guregian penned the most important piece of the spring training season for me that was subtitled: 'Sox lefty able to brush back cancer fears.' When Lester first arrived in camp, he didn't want to detail his feelings about the cancer or The Wait. He appeared annoyed at the mere mention of cancer. He just wanted to pitch and appear normal.

When I heard this, I was annoyed myself. Why wouldn't Lester feel the need to share his story and help others with a similar diagnosis? Isn't that what athletes and supposedly courageous people do? Isn't that what I did?

Then I realized that I was falling into the same cynical, judgmental trap that Callahan and many others ran right to like sharks sensing blood in the water. Who was I to tell this kid that he should start talking?

Just pure madness during these March days

By LOUIE CIMAGLIA
Sports Correspondent

You know the old saying, March, in like a lion, out like a bracket busting, spring training, legal troubling, and come backing lamb. Or something to that effect.

What a month it's been, though. March Madness has not disappointed, with seemingly every game coming down to the wire. The final four will consist of Florida, UCLA, Georgetown and Ohio State.

In a rematch of last year's championship game, Florida will once again play UCLA in the semifinal game. It's tough to bet against the Gators. They have the experience here, and until proven otherwise, they are the team to beat.

In the other game, Georgetown versus Ohio State will be interesting for one reason in particular. The centers, Roy Hibbert of the Hoyas and Greg Oden of the Buckeyes are both premiere big men. This game has a great impact on the upcoming NBA draft. Look for Georgetown to pull this one out. They have been playing fantastic basketball the entire tournament. Ohio State should have lost ... twice.

In the Championship, it's a toss up. But gimme the Hoyas over the Gators in a nail biter. The premise of a repeat champ just seems too unlikely.

As the on court drama builds, the off the field circus continues for Tennessee Titan Pacman Jones. He was arrested ... again. This marks the tenth time. Yes, tenth. What a colossal waste of talent. He is taking up valuable Sportscenter time. He is taking time away from truly amazing stories, such as the one of Kay Yow.

Yow is the basketball coach for the women's basketball team at North Carolina State. Not only is she a tremendous coach, but also she is battling stage four breast cancer. Her Wolfpack did lose in the Sweet 16 to UConn, but things are put into perspective. Her uplifting story of survival and fighting is inspiring.

Oddly enough, Monday Night Football is still in the news. Joe Theismann is gone. Say hello to your new color man ... drum roll ... Ron Jaworski. Yes, the bespectacled film jockey will sit in-between Mike Tirico and Tony Kornheiser. It's hard to see why Kornheiser was kept on board. He really didn't add much of anything. But I digress. Think happy thoughts.

Here's an interesting story. Sammy Sosa is probably going to make the roster for the Texas Rangers. Sosa hasn't done anything newsworthy since he forgot how to speak English on Capitol Hill a couple years ago.

The NHL almost banned fighting in games. For a league that is teetering on the brink of oblivion, could anything have happened to make them even worse?

With the season of Spring, perhaps better fortunes will come for some of the aforementioned parties. Let's hope so.

For the record, my brackets are completely trashed. How can someone pick the elite eight exactly right and only get one team in the final four?

It's madness.

Worth the Wait
for these survivors

Gradually, as Lester pitched and realized that he was going to get his life back, he has opened up, telling Guregian: "it (cancer) hasn't been on my mind lately because I've been doing normal stuff. Come April, though, I have to go for my three-month checkup. Then it will start creeping through my mind again. Hopefully, it (cancer) is still gone. I'm trying to forget about it for another two months, but then I have to come back and do all the tests again." Welcome to The Wait, Jon Lester. Even if you don't think about cancer every day, your life has been altered forever. Welcome to the wonderful world of the hard-working survivors.

Guregian reports that Lester is becoming more comfortable as a 'role model for survival.'

"It's a position that I got put in, I'll take it," Lester told the Herald. "I more or less treat it like any other person would attack the disease. I'm just in a unique position when it comes to it. So I embrace it. I'll do whatever I can to help those people who are going through, or who went through, what I'm going through."

I chewed on and savored a whole bunch of 'buzz' words in that quote from the Herald column. Attack. Unique. Embrace. All great stuff coming from young Mr. Lester. Jon is sounding more and more like he's ready to teach a masters' course in Cancer Survival 101. Some people will get and 'A' in the course, but again, I'm not into handing out grades for living. My opinion doesn't mean near as much as the survival experience.

A father and a son sharing the same disease pretty much gives that family carte blanche on the whole 'living your life to the fullest' thing. Granted, it was a small story that was buried in the sports section, but I never miss a tale that just might help me get through the day. Denver Nuggets' coach George Karl's 23-year-old son Coby has been diagnosed with papillary carcinoma after having his thyroid removed. Lucky me. I only had a small piece of my thyroid removed in 1998. There I go again, relating to a cancer - any cancer.

Young Karl's cancer is treatable with chemotherapy that will hopefully kill off the remaining cancer cells after his surgery. The surgery was Coby Karl's second in 13 months. This kid didn't have a long time to sit around worrying about The Wait.

When you hear all this, it's easy to miss the short paragraph in the Associated Press report noting that Dad George was diagnosed with prostate cancer in 2005, had surgery, and is back attempting to simultaneously coach and stroke Alan Iverson. Cancer surgery might just be easier, big guy.

Ambition. Living life. There is nothing at all wrong with at least making the attempt. Jon Lester wants to play baseball. Elizabeth Edwards wants to help her husband become the next President of the United States. Coby Karl might simply want to watch his Dad yank Iverson out the game and get in the headstrong scoring king's face. Wouldn't that be nice?

I just want to spend a couple of hours each week writing this column that has become a vital part of my cancer recovery.

We are all different, yet we are all the same. This is the interesting dichotomy that cancer patients share. It could be called the ying and yang of cancer survival. Bottom line - the desire to live should outweigh anyone's opinion. You get no points for nastiness.

Cancer is a different lesson. The learning curve is steep. The path for a young athlete and the middle-aged wife of a presidential candidate can be very different. The end results are hopefully, the same. Quality of life. Doing what you want to do every day, with various limitations. For now, I'll write this column in the couple of hours that it takes. I'll adjust my seat to manage the pain.

I'll see you next week as I gear up for six months from now. Bring it on, baby. I'm more than ready for The Wait. Until column No. 30 comes, Adios.

TOPS program continues to strive

By JENNIFER PETIGNE
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington Youth Soccer has certainly become quite the tradition in the town of Wilmington and a big part of the league's success over the years has been the support of the TOPS program.

TOPS stands for "The Outreach Program for Soccer". It was started in Wilmington by Ed Celli, an active member of the Wilmington community. The program is for intellectually and physically disabled children, who range from age 5 to 18.

"The focus is to provide social and athletic needs for the children," said Caryn Goulet, a participant in the TOPS community since this past fall. "We have fifteen athletes and expect up to twenty this coming spring."

Sponsored by U.S. Youth Soccer, Wilmington is one of only ten towns in Massachusetts currently running the program. Wilmington Youth Soccer's program is ten years old and counting, and is one of the largest programs in the state of Massachusetts.

"We rope off a big field and give the kids travel uniforms to play in," said Goulet. "We also have games on the side and activities that occur regularly."

The program, says Goulet, has received rave reviews.

"The parents love it," said Goulet. "On Saturday mornings, they say it is so easy to get their kids out of bed because they know they are going to play soccer."

Seeing the kids faces, as they race out of their car, is one of the most enjoyable aspects of the program.

We see these kids, bouncing up and down," said Goulet. "They are so full of smiles and hugs for the volunteers."

The child's excitement is the most rewarding aspect of the TOPS Program, according to Katie Stone, a junior at Wilmington High School who has been volunteering for the program since eighth grade.

"I love how excited the kids get when they see you. I plan to do this program for a while because it's just so great to see the kids," said Stone.

The program is not limited to soccer. On a recent holiday break, the volunteers and kids had a pizza party and made holiday cards.

"Seeing the smiles and genuine excitement of the athletes is so rewarding," said Goulet.

Players are always welcome to the program, free of any charge. Wilmington Youth Soccer even extends the program to children who do not currently live in Wilmington. The TOPS Program eases the pain of the kids participate in it.

"To have this dedicated experience," said Goulet, "they truly enjoy it."

Volunteers also gain a rewarding experience from the program. Goulet mentions only one requirement for being a volunteer. "Anyone who has love to give and is willing to give it can be a volunteer."

If you are interested in the TOPSoccer Program, Caryn Goulet suggests coming down to the Shawsheen soccer fields any Saturday morning at 10:15 AM. Don't miss the opportunity for a truly rewarding experience.

Mike Fay bought a $1 lucky chance from Wilmington Youth Lacrosse treasurer Kevin Blanch during a fundraiser held at the Tewksbury Country Club on Friday night.

Seventh grade boys win Merrimack Valley League

Wilmington had a very successful season finishing First Place in the MVC League with a record of 15-1. In addition to the League Championship, the boys also won three tournaments throughout their season. The tournaments include: Ken Waldie Tournament in Methuen, Officer James Hood Turkey Shoot out in Tewksbury, and the Cedardale Christmas Tournament in Haverhill. Their overall record including tournament play was 37-4.

Special thanks to all the

Parents for their support during the season, and to Jerry McCarthy and his son Danny for all their help with the team. Congratulations to the boys for their tremendous effort this season, a job well done!

Halliday puts forth a strong season on the mat

Wilmington's Cody Halliday has taken first place in six different youth wrestling tournaments and has advanced to the Nationals which will be held in Columbus, Ohio on April 21.

Cody Halliday, a youth Wildcat wrestler, is coming off a great season, having taken six first places throughout various tournament.

He recently finished up his season with a strong first place showing at the state meet, before an exciting 1-0 triple overtime loss in the New England for a well earned second place.

Halliday also wrestles for an elite club called Doughboy's which travels wrestling other states such as VA, NY and NJ.

Halliday is ending his season up by traveling out to the 2007 tournament of champions a National event held in Columbus Ohio, April 21st.

Michael Arria wins Regional K of C Free Throw contest

Michael Arria did a terrific job at the K of C Regional Free Throw Championships, held on March 24th, at the Coolidge School in Reading.

Competing against 14 yr. old shooters in six other K of C Districts in the Northeast Region, Michael performed superbly hitting on 23 of his 25 free throws.

He now advances to the State Championships to be held at the Boston College High School gymnasium on Sunday April 15th. Let's wish Michael Good Luck in the States!

Wilmington K of C had eight girls / boys in the 10 - 14 age bracket and each one of them did quite well.

Though Michael was the only one to advance to the States, all of the other shooters should be congratulated for making it to the Regionals.

Boys hoop season ends with semi-final and title games

Intermediate Division Sonics 47 Bucks 45

The Sonics are headed to the championship after a nail-biting victory against the Bucks! In the first quarter, Christopher Bettano led the offense with ten points, followed up by Cory Lucia and Grant Darveau with two points a piece. Kevin Teeves was also good for a free throw in the quarter. Dylan Cullen and Robert Daley both gave great defensive efforts throughout the quarter. At the end of the first the score was in favor of the Sonics, 15-11.

The Sonics kept the score close in the second quarter. Jaylin Sparks, Frank Murray, and Bryan Cymburk were all good for two points. Theodore Hondros and Anthony Cocca played eight minutes of tough defense. At the end of the half the score was in favor of the Bucks, 25-21.

The Sonics came back from halftime with fire underneath their feet. Chris led the offense again with nine points, giving him a total of 19 for the day. Grant was good for an additional six points, bringing him to eight for the day, and Cory was good for another basket giving him four points for the day. Kevin, Dylan, and Robert all continued to play in your face defense throughout the game. At the end of the third the lead switched again to 38-33, Sonics.

The Sonics were determined not to give their lead up. Bryan was good for five more points, adding to his day's total of seven, while Frank and Jaylin were good for another bucket each, bringing them to four points each for the day. Theodore and Anthony, along with the rest of the team played outstanding on the defensive side of the ball.

Nuggets 43 Bullets 35
The Nuggets earned a trip to the Intermediate Division Finals on Sunday against the tough, well coached Bullets. It was a close game from tip off to the final buzzer. Chris Fandel and Christian Taylor did a fantastic job on the boards while combining for 22 points. Derek Tarpey and Conner Benoit had great games from the guard position.

They both worked the ball very well and played awesome defense during the press. Danny Boudreau was excellent controlling the middle and moving the ball on offense. Rob Charbonneau kicked in with two huge baskets during the fourth quarter. Kurt Chandler and Brandon McCarthy worked the ball nicely against the Bullets tough defense. Adrien Fleury and Mike Wenetta were awesome defending the underneath and rebounding.

Championship Game Kings 27, 76ers 14

The Kings saved their best performance for the final, capping the Junior division championship by winning 27-14 over a talented and well-coached Sixers squad, thanks to a suffocating defense.

It was also a well-balanced Kings attack, as eight different players scored, showing the offensive depth that carried them all season.

Kings leading scorers were Johnny Aylward, who scored six points and played an outstanding all-around game, Justin Derrah with four points, including a great shot off the glass after grabbing an offensive rebound, and Cole Iovine, who scored two key baskets back-to-back mid-way through the second-half to put the game out of reach.

Alex DiRocco was the playmaker, breaking the Sixers half-court pressure, penetrating to find open teammates, and driving to the hoop for easy baskets. DiRocco also contributed four points, and along with his back-court mate Derek McGaffigan didn't allow the Sixers to get settled offensively. McGaffigan led the Kings in rebounding from the guard position, played excellent transition defense, and was active on both ends, hitting a mid-range shot after a steal.

Sean Derrah was around the rim all day, swishing a jumper, holding his opponent scoreless, and setting the tone early with great hustle. Second year players Andrew Rogers and David Barry added three points and two points respectively, and Rogers led the Kings in steals and Barry in blocks.

Brendan O'Connor, Joe Lehmann, Nick Salvato, and Zach Maia highlighted their efforts with aggressive team defense.

The 76'ers lost the final game of the season to a well coached Kings team 27 to 14. The Sixers were led on offense and defense by Nick Dulock who played an outstanding game at both ends of the floor. Also helping the Sixers in the scoring department were Dylan Lemieux, John Cave, and John Melloni.

Jr. Division

76ers 24, Eagles 18

The 76'ers defeated the Eagles 24-18. The Sixers were lead offensively by John Cave with 10 points. Michael Strangie (4 points), Nick Dulock (4 points), Dylan Lemieux (4 points), Ronald Tam and John Melloni, hitting two key free throws down the stretch. Contributing on the offensive and defensive boards was Mack Boucher. But it was the 76'ers defense lead by Brandon Hibner, Bryan Tam and Ronald Tam that was the key to their victory.

The 76'ers shut down the Eagles in the fourth quarter to come away with a 24-18 win. Patrick O'Brien led the Eagles on offense. Justin Nobrega, Brian Nguyen, and Mike McDermott also hit the scoring column for the Eagles. The entire Eagles team put in a solid effort in a season that ended one game too

Kings 25, Clippers 21

The Kings earned a well-deserved trip to the championship game with a 25-21 victory over the Clippers, thanks to an outstanding team defensive effort. Once the Kings grabbed the lead mid-way through the first half, they never trailed again.

Johnny Aylward had a monster game for the Kings, grabbing rebounds and pushing the ball to the basket, resulting in ten points. Aylward and Justin Derrah helped to keep the Clippers top scorer in check, and Cole Iovine split two defenders for a nifty outside shot. Brendan O'Connor had five steals, and took a big charge to ignite the Kings going into halftime. Sean Derrah and Nick Salvato were tireless on both ends of the floor to help maintain the lead.

Alex DiRocco and Derek McGaffigan were tenacious on defense, putting pressure on the Clippers guards to prevent any easy passes inside. DiRocco and McGaffigan also contributed nine and four points respectively.

Championship Game Sonics 44, Nuggets 36

The Sonics won an exciting 2006 - 2007 championship game over the very tough Nuggets this week. The Nuggets came out strong in the first quarter, but the Sonics kept the score close. Christopher Bettano led the offense with eight points, followed by Grant Darveau with two. Kevin Teeves, Cory Lucia, and Nick Cocca all played tough on both sides of the ball. At the end of the first quarter the Sonics fell behind to the Nuggets, 12-10.

The Sonics came out strong in the second quarter. Frank Murray led the offense with 8 points, followed by Jaylin Sparks and Bryan Cymburk with four points a piece. Anthony Cocca, Robert Daley, and Dylan Cullen all played in your face defense throughout the quarter.

The Nuggets returned from halftime with determination and a great defensive effort limiting the Sonics to only four points in the quarter. Christopher scored the four hard earned points for Sonics, adding to his day's total of 12 points.

The Sonics kept the same mentality that they have had all year long in not giving up until the final whistle blew. Bryan led the offense with eight points putting him at a total of 12 while Jaylin added 6 points, including a three from behind the arc, putting him at a total of ten for the game.

Derek Tarpey did an excellent job on both sides of the ball as he had for two years with the Nuggets. He worked well with Christian Taylor and Chris Fandel to work the ball underneath. Christian and Fandel were everywhere on the boards Saturday. Kurt Chandler also had a great game working the ball with Brandon McCarthy against the Sonics tough defense. The Nuggets got some great rebounding help from Mike Wenetta who also did a fantastic job on defense down low.

Dave Morris and Conner Benoit also had outstanding defensive games. Benoit was also great on the fast break and moving the ball at the top of the key. Rob Charbonneau came into the game with the hot hand. He had a couple of huge baskets as the Nuggets attempted to mount their comeback effort late in the game. Adrien Fleury was awesome on both defense as well as offense when it came time to work the ball underneath against a very tight man-to-man defense. As usual Danny Boudreau was everywhere on defense. He had an outstanding game defending and working the ball into the middle and around the perimeter.

The Nuggets would like to congratulate Derek Tarpey, Kurt Chandler, Mike Wenetta, Chris Fandel, and Danny Boudreau on two very successful seasons with Nuggets in addition to a trip to the Championship this season, they were proud to be the Intermediate Division Champs for 2005-06 Season.

Additionally the Nuggets are proud to have had Conner Benoit, Christian Taylor, Dave Morris, Adrien Fleury, Rob Charbonneau and Brandon McCarthy on the squad this year.

Sr. Division

Rockets 46, Suns 44

The Rockets were able to advance to the TBBL Senior Division Championship with a big win over the tough and talented Suns on Sunday. Tyler White sank two big free throws in the fourth quarter to move the Rockets ahead by the two points needed for victory. Dan Caruso and Jeff Oberg did a great job under the boards and defending the middle while Manny Cabral and Spencer Bradley worked the ball well against the Suns tough defense. Brian McNaught and Mike Stowell were both excellent in defending the top of the key and preventing the Suns from being able to work the ball to the middle.

Patrick Taylor and Scott Hynes worked very well together on both offense and defense during the course of the game.

Raptors 51, Pistons 47

The Raptors terminated the Pistons long winning streak today. Period one ended with the Pistons in the lead at 15 to 8. Brendon Coughlin, Greg Kelly and Christian Cameron provided the scoring while Joe Kenney, Mike Begonis and Jeff Quilty defended. The Pistons timing was off during the second period, which ended with the Raptors up at 22 to 18. James McDermott and Rob Hutchins came up with a few points while Daryl Van Deusen, Neil Dave and Andrew Lee kept the Raptors from pulling any further ahead.

The Raptors benefited from a technical foul where Trace Salvato sunk all three shots. Top scorers for the Pistons today were Brendan Coughlin (18), Greg Kelly (11), James McDermott (9) and Rob Hutchins (4).

Championship Game

Raptors 64, Rockets 58

The Raptors came out with a strong defense which put some pressure on the Rockets, as the Raptors turned their focus towards offense they were able to get scoring from John Wade as he dropped in an early lay up to get his team going. Robert Bradley was able to break the press and make some nice passes inside to give his team the first quarter lead.

In the second quarter Derek Steen and Trace Salvato came out running which led to fast break points along with Chris Deacetis hitting back to back three pointers to extend the lead by fifteen points, leading 22-7. But the Rockets were not to be held down as they slowly continued to ease back into the game. Mike Collier and Derek were all over the glass as they grabbed third quarter. Robert Bradley was as focused and he was doing it all, passing, scoring and playing tough defense. He was not alone in as Dave Minichello drained a three pointer, Matt Champoux and Peter Stratis dropping in a couple of baskets and John Wade was flying all over the court as he dropped in eight points in the quarter to give his team a nine point lead heading into the fourth quarter.

The Raptors' John Goempel was given the task of trying to stop/slow down the Rocket's offense by applying man-to-man defense. This seemed to work but the Raptors could not match baskets and their lead slowly diminished, at one point late in the fourth quarter the Rockets were leading by the score of 53 to 52. Mike Collier, Jimmy Ferreira, Chris Deacetis were strong down the stretch, but Trace Salvato and Derek Steen were unbelievable as they were focused and strong under pressure. Trace hit some key free throws and Derek grabbed every rebound that came off the glass.

The Rockets' Manny Cabral had a great game on both sides of the court with great defense, rebounding and shooting throughout the entire game. Manny worked with Spencer Bradley, Dan Caruso, and JC Forster to try to contain the tough inside game of the Raptors. Dan Caruso has been a defensive force in this league all season.

Bradley did an excellent job working the ball in and penetrating the Raptor's tough zone.

As they have all season, Mike Stowell and Tyler White both did an outstanding job playing defense at the top of the key. They were successful in slowing down the Raptor's outside game. Ethan Culwell played tough despite being extremely ill all week. His rebounding and defense underneath had been excellent all season long.

Patrick Taylor and Scott Hynes also had great games working the ball on their lineups. Brian Cochrane put on one his best performances of the season. His efforts on the defense boards and the fast break were huge. He worked well with Jeff Oberg on the boards and working the ball in underneath.

Local towns install audible crossing lights

Chirping signals for hearing impaired

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Some people cross the street as if there were no traffic signals present at all, let alone pedestrian crossing lights. Unfortunately, for a growing number of people crossing signals are needed and lights simply are not enough.

According to figures from "Helping Hands for the Blind, a not-for-profit whose goal is to promote social, economic and educational opportunities for the blind, "(The) latest available statistics from the Department of Health and Human Services show there are 4.3 million people in the United States who are blind or severely visually impaired."

Helping Hands also estimates, "An additional 50,000 people will go blind this year."

At least two local communities - Stoneham and Wakefield - have recognized this fact and installed audible crossing signals at major intersections in the community. Wakefield is the latest to care about this issue and the town's Commission on Handicapped Issues took $2,000 out of its account this past year to install the audible signals at the busy intersection of Main, Water and West Water streets.

Wakefield Fire Alarm and Traffic Signal Superintendent expense, Wakefield received four speakers; one for each direction a person would be crossing. Berube added that it is very important to have the speakers facing in the right position to keep down the confusion, especially at intersections with more than four streets crossing.

Stoneham has had the lights at two intersections for over six years, according to Department of Public Works Director/Town Engineer Robert Grover. They are located at the intersection of Park and Marble streets and at the busy main intersection of Franklin, Main and Central streets.

"There was a request from the "Town Manager's office) that a visually impaired person was using those intersections," Grover said.

He estimates that at the time the audible signals cost about $1,500 to add on to the existing traffic signals. The audible signal, which can make any one of several sounds, is a modular piece with a speaker that is wired into the lighting circuit.

"They were super-imposed," Grover said. "It would have been cost prohibitive at Main and Franklin if we had to change everything."

He noted that the wiring for the signals at that intersection is buried underground. Changing the whole fixture

"...there are 4.3 million people in the United States who are blind or severely visually impaired." Helping Hands also estimates, "An additional 50,000 people will go blind this year."

would have required digging up the street and repaving it after the work was complete.

In Wakefield, Disability Issues Chairperson Warren Magoon said the request came through Town Hall from Senator Richard Tisei's (R-Middlesex/Essex District). Once the Commission received the request a site visit was made to intersection.

"There was an understanding that this was a difficult corner," Magoon said. "We went down and tried to cross it several ways."

Although there were no visually impaired people using the intersection at the time of the site visit, the Commission decided that other factors made the intersection worthy of the $2,000 expenditure. Magoon noted that several people with baby carriages were trying to make it across Main Street and there are facilities for handicapped people in the area.

Both Magoon and Grover say the signals make a chirping sound. However, they can be adjusted to make anyone of five distinctive sounds.

According to a study by the Canadian group, Advocates for Sight Impaired Consumers (ASIC) the settings should be regulated according to the direction a person would be crossing. Their website, www.asic.bc.ca recommends the following:

"Walk Mode Sound: - Nine variations are available to indicate when it is legal to enter the crosswalk.

We subscribe to the widely recognized "cuckoo" sound for crossings of a north/south direction and a "chirp" sound for east/west crossings. We do not support the inclusion of any additional standard or customized walk messages as we found they add an air of confusion.

- Cuckoo sound for north/south crossings - audio;
- Chirp sound for east/west crossings - audio;
- Additional (standard) walk message - audio; and,
- Additional (customized) walk message - audio.

"Walk Sound Pause: - This function establishes the pause duration between the walk sound.

We recommend the interval be set to a one second interval ... A shorter period does not provide sufficient time for a sight-impaired pedestrian to assess the sound of parallel traffic, an essential component for orientation. This interval will also provide an opportunity (although brief) to identify vehicles that may be turning across the pedestrian's path of travel."

Neither Magoon nor Grover has received any negative feedback as yet. Grover noted that to the contrary he has received requests, which he has directed toward Town Hall for the installation of the audible signals at other intersections in Stoneham.

Magoon said that the Wakefield Commission would like to install audible signals at several more intersections through out the community. The sights would include Main and Green streets in the Greenwood section, Main Street and North Avenue at "The Junction," North Avenue and Albion Street at the railroad crossing and North Avenue and Prospect Street at the railroad crossing.

However, in Wakefield, the funding for such projects comes out of the Commissions account, which is fed by fines from people parking illegally in spaces reserved for handicapped drivers. At this time there is only $2,000 remaining in the account.

There is no state funding or grants that are set aside for dealing with such a common problem. In fact there are no Chirping Signals to S-10

"SHOOTER" A SOLID ACTION FILM

GRADE: ***

Shooter is a lot like an updated 'Rambo' picture, but more sophisticated.

This very satisfying film begins in Africa where U.S. Marine sniper Bob Lee Swagger (great name, played by Mark Wahlberg) and his best friend and spotter Donnie (Lane Garrison) are on a mission. They complete their covert work, but no one comes to extract them, and Donnie is killed in a firefight.

It's now three years later and Swagger has retired. He lives in a remote mountain cabin with his dog and a thumb-drive copy of the 9/11 Commission Report. The only thing that might get the Swagger to leave his home is an appeal to his sense of honor.

That's just the bait dangled by a Marine bigwig (Danny Glover) who tells Swagger that a sniper will attempt a long-range assassination of the president. The country needs Swagger's expertise to scout out locations for a sniper's nest and help prevent the hit.

Surprise! Swagger is in place at the time when an assassination occurs. He has been set up as the bad guy, and we're off to the races.

Director Antoine Fuqua ("Training Day") sets into motion a taut thriller as Swagger is pursued by the authorities, complete with many JFK-like conspiracy scenarios.

But one FBI agent quickly realizes that things don't add up. This agent also provides comic relief with his crowd-pleasing defiant responses to his bosses.

Fresh off his Oscar nomination for 'The Departed', Wahlberg is excellent, and the most convincing part of the movie is the way the film lays out the details of a sniper's deadly craft. Wahlberg sounds very credible when he talks about how a sniper has to take into account the Earth's Coriolis effect. (Real-life Marine sniper Patrick Garrity's consultation obviously helped out here.)

Shooter is a solid action film, one that would have been at home being released with all the big-budget action films this summer, if that schedule was overcrowded as it is already.

"DEAD SILENCE"
GRADE: *

Was there a dying need among horror film fans to see a movie about a homicidal ventriloquist's dummy? If there was, this isn't what you were looking for.

"Dead Silence" is a ridiculous would-be shocker from the writing/directing team behind the "Saw" movies. I like those movies, but "Dead Silence" is nothing like them. It's a dull ghost story in which, shortly after a guy receives a ventriloquist's dummy in the mail, his girlfriend is butchered. That sends him into investigation mode, running into a family curse, a dogged detective (Donnie Wahlberg) and a lot of music that's blatantly stolen from "The Exorcist."

It's a cynical movie, made by people who must know how unfrightening their film is and how idiotic its "surprise" ending is. Oh, and just one piece of advice: If a dummy shows up in your mail and if it starts moving on its own and if people start getting slaughtered, how about sticking it in your driveway and running over it five or six times?

Case closed, and it could have shrunk this tale's running time down to about 10

GRADE: ***

300, the blood-spattering, sword-and-sandals tale based on Frank Miller's graphic novel, is simplistic and excessive - and there's nothing wrong with that.

A digitized universe of craggy mountains, dark clouds, soaring arrows, decapitations and hand-to-hand combat, 300 is enough to mobilize the pulse of adult teenagers everywhere.

It's even based on a true story. King Leonidas of Sparta led his badly outnumbered troops into battle with the Persian army led by Xerxes I in 480 BC. With a

Reading Symphony Orchestra needs musicians

The Reading Symphony Orchestra has openings in violin I, violin II, viola, cello, bass, trombones I and II, and horn IV. The RSO concert schedule includes four concerts a year, including a POPS concert in May. Rehearsals are on Tuesday nights at 7:30 p.m. in Reading.

If you are an experienced player or a young musician looking to join an orchestra, you are encouraged to call the Music Director and arrange to sit in on a rehearsal. Call Roland Vazquez at 978-475-6518.

The RSO experience combines high musical standards with a friendly atmosphere. Our conductor, Roland Vazquez, is enthusiastic, knowledgeable, experienced and good humored. He is committed to bringing forward the individual strengths of each player so as to produce performances that have been widely praised by audiences since 1997 when he was appointed Music Director.

Recent concerts have included major works by Brahms, Dvorak, Bach and Shostakovich, as well as original works by young students from the area. Next year's season will mark RSO's 75th anniversary and among the featured works will be a performance of Beethoven's Ninth along with area choruses.

QP announces scholarship availability

READING — Each year The Quannapowitt Players of Reading awards a $2000 scholarship to a local high school senior that has been accepted into a theater arts program in a college or university.

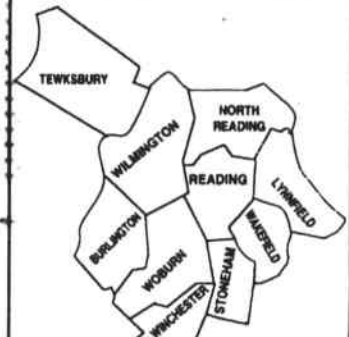

The scholarship is open to students from the towns that are contiguous to Wakefield and Reading, as QP originated with thespians from these two towns. Therefore applications will be accepted from students in the following communities: Wakefield, Melrose, Lynnfield, Saugus, Reading, North Reading, Stoneham, Wilmington, and Woburn.

See the Guidance Office of your local high school for an application. Applications are also available on line at the QP website <http://www.qptheater.com>. C2% A0 > www.qptheater.com.

The application deadline for submission of the student's official transcript and the completed application form is April 15th, 2007. Applications should be submitted to the Quannapowitt Players, 55 Hopkins St., Reading, MA 01867-3917 ATT: Scholarship.

If there are any questions please leave a message at 781/942-2212.

Yes: in your backyard

"The heroin awareness program through the Woburn District Court is unrelenting and is continuing on an hourly and day-to-day basis, according to two Woburn Court probation officers," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Probation Officers Michael Higgins and Vincent Piro are out daily preaching the need for such a program to schools, parents groups, service clubs, nurses and others."

"The H.E.A.T. (Heroin Education Awareness Task Force) program was born some 18 months ago and received major attention just a month ago as an alarming number of new heroin users have hit the area and the Woburn Court."

"The Woburn Court covers Burlington, Winchester, Reading, North Reading, Stoneham, and Wilmington through the local police departments. The need, said Higgins at a luncheon of the Woburn Rotary Club in recent days, has not abated as overdoses are still regularly reported to police and the courts."

"The H.E.A.T. Initiative is one where all seven police departments in the area have come together to address the continuing problem of heroin abuse. Both Piro and Higgins told the group at the Holiday Inn Select that it was their belief that based on their professional knowledge, 'the heroin abuse situation is spiraling out of control and getting worse on a daily basis.'"

"Being on the front lines, they said, they observe its devastating effects on individuals, especially young men and girls, as well as on families, on a daily basis."

"The two urged family members, who they described as 'the best probation officers' to be on the lookout for a host of telltale signs of heroin use, such as major changes in friends, school habits, work habits, dress and general lifestyle changes."

"There is a serious heroin problem in our area," said Higgins firmly. "All you have to do is look at the police logs in the city and towns we cover."

"Back years ago, heroin was considered a substance used by lowlifes in urban settings, but no more, they point out. The problem is in one's own backyard."

"It is really hitting young girls 17-21," reported Higgins. At one time, he pointed out, there were 300-plus beds for males in the state where they could be sent for treatment and rehabilitation and only six beds for women. The courts, he pointed out, had nowhere to send them or programs to address the problem."

"In March 2005, Higgins and Piro and others at the Woburn Probation office decided to take things into their own hands to stop repeat users."

"The problem, they noted, could be scored by the DEA (Drug Enforcement Agency) that placed the area's heroin problem #3 in the nation. The influx of overdoses was apparent, they said. It got so bad in two neighboring communities in the Woburn Court area, some 7 individuals in one community and 6 in another in the Class of 2000 died from overdoses after some research was done. 'Something had to be done,' they said...."

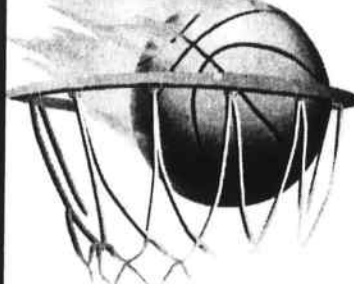

"The birth of the H.E.A.T. program is a model for the state and for other courts, noted the probation officers, who are now working with the Malden District Court on implementing a program for their communities."

"The focus of the program is to educate the individual and to provide treatment for those entrapped in the grips of heroin usage...."

Swimming and riding a bike are good forms of exercise

There is a silent epidemic spreading throughout America. It is insidious and ravaging, and its victims are our children.

What is it? Obesity in children has emerged as a serious threat to our nation's health.

Mary Ellen Renna, M.D., a board certified pediatrician and a physician nutritionist, is on a mission to reverse this trend.

To combat this, she has developed a family-based nutrition and fitness program designed to educate children from infancy through adolescence. Here are some Dos & Don'ts from her program entitled "Next Generation Fitness with Mary Ellen Renna, M.D."

1. DO plan your meals every week so that you are able to keep track of what you are eating. 2. DO incorporate foods that the whole family is comfortable with. There are healthy alternatives for nearly every kid-favorite food. 3. DO eat fruits, vegetables, protein, grains, nuts and dairy daily. This will keep your children full and less likely to turn to foods with empty calories. 4. DO involve the whole family in meal planning, exercise and family outings. The whole family's involvement will ensure success. 5. DO get your children to exercise at least three times a week, 60 minutes per day - which can be broken up into six times each day for about 10 to 15 minutes.

1. DON'T ever skip a meal. Skipping meals deprives the body of important nutrients and may cause you to overcompensate by eating empty calories later. 2. DON'T completely eliminate the foods children are used to eating. Instead, try to make healthy versions. 3. DON'T make deep-fried foods a part of your diet. Replace these with foods that have been sautéed, baked, roasted, broiled, or grilled. 4. DON'T expect the children to participate in good nutrition and exercise without parents being good role models. 5. DON'T rely on gym class or sports-team involvement to teach your kids lifelong exercise habits. Children need to learn to exercise without being a part of a sports team and get into the habit of an exercise routine.

WAXING OR TWEEZING are popular methods of shaping eyebrows.

Simple ways to tame those brows

The shape and color of your eyebrows can have a dramatic impact on your face and the framing of your eyes. However, for many women, shaping and taming brows is a difficult lesson to master.

There are some key things to remember when working with your brows. Here are some of the top tips to follow from beauty experts:

• Your eyebrows should begin and end in distinct spots on your face. Hold a pencil vertically alongside your nose. Where the pencil hits above your eye is where your eyebrow should start, otherwise you'll look like you have an expanse of forehead between. The highest point of the arch should be just a little beyond the outer corner of the iris (colored portion of your eye) and should taper off to the end.

• The color of your brows should be two shades lighter than your hair color in most instances, except if you have very light blonde hair or gray hair, in which case it should be darker. If you are having your hair colored dramatically, find out if the salon also does eyebrow dyeing as well. However, do not attempt to dye your brows at home, which could result in the chemicals dripping in your eye, possibly causing blindness.

• If tweezing your eyebrows is exceptionally painful, try numbing the area with ice or a topical numbing agent.

• Trimming long hairs on your eyebrows can also keep them tamed. Brush the hairs up with a toothbrush or eyebrow brush and trim across. Don't trim too much or else you can get bald spots.

• Eyebrow powder can help define your brows and is more subtle than penciling in sparse areas.

Skin care regimen protects against environmental damage

The Great Outdoors provides a veritable Catch-22 when it comes to overall health. While the advantages of spending time in the fresh air and sunshine can be exhilarating and cathartic, those same elements in addition to other hidden dangers can pose potential year-round health threats, particularly to the skin.

Many people have subjected their skin to years of abuse, whether sunbathing or skiing the slopes without protection. But there are measures that they can take to help combat any damage that may have occurred. Additionally, there are steps to take to protect the skin for years to come.

• Always use sunscreen.

Skin-care professionals recommend always applying sunscreen before heading outdoors, even for relatively short times exposed to the sun. Conventional practices suggest using a sunscreen with an SPF (sun protection factor) of at least 15. Anything less could lead to sunburn or other, more serious problems down the road. Sunblocks should be applied all year, not just during the peak summer season. Even though it may be cold outdoors, that does not negate the power of ultraviolet rays. Plus, a landscape covered in pure white snow can reflect the sun's rays and lead to nasty burn as well.

• Bundle up. Just as you'd wear wide-brimmed hats and sunglasses in the summer, protect your skin from the harsh wind and icy temperatures of winter. Persistent cold air can dry out the skin considerably, which will exacerbate dry skin problems and could promote premature wrinkling. Not to mention the sting from wind and cold is just uncomfortable. Wrap a scarf around your neck and face and continue to wear sunglasses. Cover up with gloves, as the hands also take a beating if not protected.

• Pollution can cause trouble. Environmental factors apart from sun and wind can also damage the skin. Pollution contributes to the number of free radicals in the air, which can cause diminished vitality and appearance of the skin. Minimize exposure to smoke, smog and areas where pollution is prevalent. Wash your face thoroughly after any exposure and make sure to eat a balanced diet of fruits rich in antioxidants to help combat the effect of free radicals.

• Rely on the right skin-care products. To help the skin look its best, use skin-care products that can address the premature aging and damage to the skin the environment may cause. Yves Rocher Laboratories, for instance, recently finished years of work on an anti-aging cream that combines ingredients that play a strong role in replenishing skin. Riche Crème's Deep Regenerating Crème was designed specifically as an anti-aging remedy, utilizing such ingredients as Fatty Acids, Omega 6, ProVitamin A and Vitamin E, each of which has been known to renew skin cells.

Further helping to combat environmental damage to the skin, the crème softens and smooths out skin that might have seen too much of the outdoors. Made up largely of rich oils, Deep Regenerating Crème also forms a protective barrier against harsh winter conditions.

Additionally, don't forget to drink plenty of water to keep your body - and skin - hydrated. Several glasses per day will ensure moist, supple skin used in conjunction with the other precautionary measures you take to look your best.

Reduce your risk for kidney disease

Though it affects nearly 20 million Americans, chronic kidney disease (CKD) is something many people don't think about until it's too late. While numerous people know of a friend or family member who has kidney problems, according to research published in the American Journal of Kidney Diseases, nearly half of all people with an advanced form of kidney disease do not even know they have weak or failing kidneys. Preventing kidney disease is essential to maintaining a high quality of life.

Know your family history. People who have a family member with kidney disease are more likely to develop it themselves. In addition, African Americans are four times more likely to suffer from kidney disease than Caucasians.

Eat a balanced diet. Kidneys are responsible for keeping a balance of certain chemicals, such as sodium, potassium and phosphorus, in your blood. A balanced diet that does not include excess amounts of any of these chemicals helps your kidneys do their job.

Get regular checkups. As previously mentioned, many people are currently suffering from kidney disease and don't even know it. People with diabetes or high blood pressure should have their urine checked regularly by their physician.

Be cautious with medications. Medications are often prescribed to address chemical deficiencies within the body. However, be careful with both prescribed and over-the-counter medications. Prolonged use can lead to chemical imbalances that make the kidneys' job even harder.

Salon Fringe

Upscale salon opens in downtown Reading

An upscale salon, Salon Fringe opened its doors in November of 2006 at 2 Haven Street in Reading.

Gary Hickey, a Wakefield resident, has been a hair stylist for over 20 years and business owner on Newbury Street in Boston since 1993. His 1st Salon, the highly successful Jerel Roberts, has won multiple 'Best of Boston' awards along with being noted by 'InStyle Magazine' as 'the place to go when in Boston'.

"Over the past several years, I've been noticing a change on Newbury Street. It's lost its charm that it's been known for. Rents have gone through the roof; local merchants have been driven out of the area and replaced by big national chain stores. Lack of parking has made Newbury Street more of an inconvenience to visit which limits foot traffic to students and tourists," according to Hickey.

"My wife Jackie had been lobbying to move our business closer to home for the past several years, and we had always talked about how Reading would be such a great town to open an upscale Salon. Reading has many small businesses that have a 'City or Urban' flair, we figured our business would fit right in. The people of Reading and surrounding communities appreciate quality and service. At Salon Fringe quality of service is what's most important to us. People deserve to be pampered, and that's what we do. After being here for four months my only regret is that I should have done this years ago!"

Salon Fringe specializes in corrective hair color, and include other services such as manicures, pedicures, waxing and reparative treatments. Customers can even have an espresso or cappuccino while they wait.

Finding ways to make fitness fun

Year in, year out, scores of people make getting in shape their New Year's Resolution. But after a few weeks, many of those same people are back to their old behaviors, leaving the gym behind for some post-work couch time.

For many, the gym and working out simply isn't fun or even remotely enjoyable. While stuck in the office all day, the last thing many people want to do is go spend a couple of hours doing something they don't particularly enjoy. But those workouts, quite frankly, can be a matter of life or death. Consider a 2003 study from the American Cancer Society that suggested overweight and obesity could account for 14 percent of cancer deaths in males, and 20 percent for cancer in females. Simply put, your trips to the gym aren't simply something you should want to do, they're something you need to do.

For those who feel they'll just never get into working out because it's too boring, try making your workouts more fun. There's a host of things you can do to turn your exercise regimen from something you dread to something you really appreciate and look forward to.

Get a partner: Many people find that working out with a partner is a good way to stay on schedule and stay motivated. You're less likely to skip a workout if it's your turn to drive to the gym or if a friend is there to hassle you into not skipping.

Also, going to the gym with a friend can be more enjoyable because you can joke around between sets or just talk as if you were sitting on the couch watching a movie. As an added bonus, you might even push yourself more physically to keep up with a friend, which is another motivating factor.

Mix things up: If your workouts don't involve isolating specific muscles each day (where Monday you'll work solely triceps and back, Tuesday legs and chest, etc.) but instead are more general and less strenuous, then you're bound to get bored. A good way to combat that is to change your routine. Try going to the gym at a different time once per week, perhaps before work instead of after. Also, go in reverse order of your typical workout. Muscles get used to the same work every day, so if you keep doing the same routine at the same time, you'll find your workouts are less effective. Mixing things up is beneficial to both your muscles and your mind, which will be less likely to grow bored.

Play sports: Workouts don't need to just include dumbbells and situps. If your office has a company softball team, join it. Or if there's a local basketball league you can join, consider that as well. Such teams should not replace a good workout routine (as they likely won't feature more than a game or two per week), but can act as a great complement to trips to the gym. Also, getting out in the fresh air can help improve your state of mind.

Go outdoors: Many state parks have workout stations along the trails you can walk. While these don't include weights, they have stations for pull-ups, situps, stretching your legs, etc. And if you're on trails, keep in mind the walk itself is great exercise, particularly if the trails feature some hills to climb. Again, the fresh air can be very rejuvenating as well.

Incorporate music: Many exercise enthusiasts find that music is a perfect complement to their workouts. Time tends to go by a lot faster when you're listening to your own playlist. And thanks to the numerous MP3 devices, you can create your own playlist specifically for working out, loading it with music you know will get you pumped up and keep you motivated throughout your workout.

Loved ones play role in managing arthritis

The stressful feeling of a visit to the doctor is familiar to many rheumatoid arthritis (RA) patients. The help and support of friends and family may be crucial to alleviating these fears.

"Arthritis is a chronic condition. Patients with a strong support network tend to be in better control of the disease," said Dr. John Klippel, CEO of the Arthritis Foundation.

The effects of RA are not always obvious to others, although this common form of arthritis impacts more than two million people in the U.S. alone. Chronic inflammation in the lining of joints can lead to decreased range of motion, fatigue and permanent joint damage.

While loved ones cannot reduce the painful symptoms of RA, they can be important partners in managing the disease. Third parties can help patients recall important information and instructions, as well as help guide the discussion with healthcare providers. In fact, studies have shown that 20 to 50 percent of what is said in the doctor's office is forgotten.

RA can be especially humbling for people who want to be independent, leaving them feeling embarrassed or reluctant to engage those closest to them. By creating a network of friends and family who can offer assistance, an RA patient doesn't have to rely on any one individual for help. Following are some tips to help create a successful support team:

Poet and essayist J.D. Scrimgeour will read from his work on Thursday, April 26 at 7 p.m. at the Flint Memorial Library, 147 Park Street, North Reading.

Mr. Scrimgeour's poetry has appeared in many magazines, including Poetry and Ploughshares, and it has won awards from the National Society of Arts and Letters and the Academy of American Poets.

His book of poems, The Last Miles, was published in 2005. His essay collection, Themes for English B, Professors' Education In and Out of Class, won the 2005 Associated Writing Programs' Award for non-fiction.

Referring to the essay collection, Publisher Weekly says, "this portrait of a teacher, a school and an education system all struggling to progress - and to find meaning in the progression - is insightful and entertaining." Mr. Scrimgeour coordinates the Creative Writing Program at Salem State College.

The event is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the Friends of the Library. For more information call 978-664-4942.

The next meeting of the Melrose Chapter #1124 AARP will take place at the Milano Senior Center, 201 W. Foster Street in Melrose.

Following an abbreviated business requirement, an immediate serving of strawberry shortcake will be offered. And, if that's not enough, Frank Smith will be there with his unique style of musical entertainment.

It is a popular meeting and reservations are necessary. Call Dottie Pearl 781-665-7012. Deadline is April 11. To cover the cost of the serving a $4 donation for the reservation is required. Again, the Directors are holding a cash raffle.

BIOETHICS DISCUSSION AT FLINT LIBRARY

On Tuesday, April 10 at 7 p.m. at the Flint Memorial Library, 147 Park Street, North Reading, Anne Underwood will lead a discussion about bioethics. This event is part of North Reading Reads 2007, the town's annual community reading project.

This year's selection is Jodi Picoult's novel, My Sister's Keeper, a story with strong bioethical themes. The questions arising from the novel will be a starting point for an exploration and general discussion of challenging questions.

Anne Underwood, an attorney and mediator, who has also studied bioethics at the Kennedy Institute of Ethics at Georgetown University, works with faith communities on issues of professional ethics. She writes a monthly column,

SPORTS SHORTS

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA

Who holds the record for most home runs in a single World Series game?

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•READING'S LANI WRIGHT

Lani Wright had a great year as a freshman goaltender at Middlebury College. Rotating among three goaltenders, Wright delivered an impressive performance during her freshman season, posting a 13-3 individual mark along with a 1.64 goals against average.

•SENIOR SHORTSTOP STEVE GATH (READING)

EthicsWalk, for PlainViews, an e-newsletter for chaplains and other spiritual care providers. She lives in Maine.

The event is free and open to the public and is sponsored by the Friends of the Library. For further information call 978-664-4942.

PANCAKE BREAKFAST WITH EASTER BUNNY

The 16th annual Pancake Breakfast with the Easter Bunny will be held on Saturday, April 7 from 8 - 11 a.m. $2 for children 9 and under, $3 for ages 10 and up. The location is 370 Salem Street, Wakefield. Hosted by Wakefield Assembly No. 43, International Order of the Rainbow Girls.

12TH ANNUAL SPELLING BEE MARCH 30TH

The 12th Annual Adult Spelling Bee, sponsored by the Stoneham Business and Community Education Foundation will be held on Friday, March 30 at 7:30 p.m. Teams of four will gather at the Robin Hood School gymnasium to see who will be the Spelling Bee Champions of 2007. The competition has been fierce during the past few years and teams have already been submitting their names in eager anticipation. Anyone wishing to compete or sponsor a team call 781-438-9720.

Admission for spectators is free. Food and beverages will be available throughout the evening. There will be door prizes and other surprise raffles throughout the evening. During intermission children will also be able to test their spelling skills and win prizes.

For more information call Marie Christie at 781-438-9720. Team entries or donations can be mailed to SBCEF, PO Box 408, Stoneham, Ma. 02180.

CHAPTER 507 NARFE MEETING APRIL 4

On Wednesday, April 4 Chapter 507 NARFE will be having its monthly meeting at the Reading Senior Center, 29 Pleasant Street, Reading. Please come for refreshments, socializing, listening to the speaker and of course the meeting.

Calendar to S-11

MASS./READING HS) was on base four times for Bentley College, with a single, two hit by pitch and a walk, and scored twice as the University of New Haven topped Bentley, 12-3, in non-conference baseball at Rollins College's Alford Stadium.

•Need some help with this week's question? The record is held by two players, one of whom is a former Red Sox.

•While most of us settle in on cold winter nights, Reading's Hannah Therrien is preparing her equipment for another three-hour training session at Nashoba Valley Ski Area. As a J4 Class Alpine competitor for 12-13 year olds, she competes in the Tri-State Division of the USSA Alpine Program. Hannah is a member of the Nashoba Valley Rovers Race Team and competes in both technical (Slalom) and speed events (Giant Slalom). She recently completed a very successful year, placing in the top five in the Eastern Tri-State Division, qualifying her for a trip for the second straight year to the Tri-State Championships, held in February at Sundown Ski Resort in Western Connecticut and Jiminey Peak in Massachusetts. She competed for top honors against 60 top ranked J4 racers from Massachusetts, Connecticut, Eastern New York and Rhode Island, and after two days of competition on some of the steepest and most challenging terrain in the area she jumped from the 27th seed to an 11th place finish, allowing her to add her name to the list of 13 J4 girls who qualified to race in the J4 Future Stars competition this past weekend at Sunday River Resort in Maine, which featured 170 of the top racers from the tri-state area.

•STONEHAM'S JENNI-FER SERRANO is a junior at Bryant University playing softball and has not been previously included in the review. She was selected 4 years to Middlesex all stars and 2 years All League all star. This is her second year starting at 2nd base for the team which has won the NE10 championship the past 2 years and played in the NCAA tournament the past 3 years. In a 2-3 week at the Florida Southern Invitational, she went 3-for-3 with two runs and a sblo home run in the victory over Hillsdale.

•On April 16, STEVEN KOPPEL FROM READING, MA, will be running in the 111th Boston Marathon to save lives through the 18th annual Dana-Farber Marathon Challenge (DFMC).

Koppel, along with DFMC teammates from across the United States as well as other countries, will run Massachusetts' historic marathon route from Hopkinton to Boston to raise $4 million for cancer research.

Since the DFMC's inception in 1989, the runners have raised more than $30 million for the Barr Program. In 1990, Dana-Farber was among the first charity organizations to be given official marathon numbers by the Boston Athletic Association (BAA). This year, 21 charities benefit from the BAA's charity program. To contribute to the Dana-Farber Marathon Challenge, go online to dfmarathon.kintera.org or contact the DFMC office at (617) 632-1970 or dfmc@dfci.harvard.edu

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: The record for most home runs in a single World Series game is Babe Ruth, New York A.L., 1926 and 1928; Reggie Jackson, New York A.L., 1977, each of whom hit three home runs in a single World Series game.

•DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please email it to readingchronicle@comcast.net, or mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. ## TECH TALK, VETERANS' BENEFITS

Raytheon, CMARC and Woburn

"Schools' Supt. Dr. Carl Batchelder updated the School Committee at a recent meeting on a new outreach program about to be implemented at the high school with the help of Raytheon representatives," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"According to the Superintendent, two officials from the defense company recently visited the new facility to discuss the creation of a technology-based extracurricular offering for junior class students.

"However, while the creation of the program is a virtual certainty, specific details are still scarce, as discussions are still in the development phase.

"Two Vice Presidents of Raytheon walked through the high school (recently) and they were very impressed with the technology there," said Batchelder. "It will really be a problem-solving and technology program. I think it will be an exciting [opportunity]."

"According to WMHS Principal Bob Norton, he has also approached CMARC officials to discuss the possibility of expanding a pre-existing program.

"CMARC, a non-profit organization based in Woburn, assists people with disabilities in learning important life skills and employment so that they can live independent lives.

"The local charity reportedly works with more than 200 disabled persons on a daily basis as part of its mission.

"On the high school level, CMARC Kids in Society was established in partnership with the Woburn organization, a connection that has already proved its worth, the principal reported. The program has drawn much praise...."

Patriot 'missives' in North Reading

"The North Reading Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 10874 has announced the winners and runners-up in their annual youth essay contest for Middle School students," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"Post Commander James E. MacLauchlan organizes the contest along with NRMS social studies teacher Kathryn Jones.

"The Patriot's Pen is a nationwide youth essay writing contest that gives students in grades six, seven and eight an opportunity to write essays expressing their

Movies

superior knowledge of the terrain, and, of course, the heart of a true warrior, Leonidas, played here by Gerard Butler, valiantly held off the Persians at the pass of Thermopylae. I won't tell you how it ended, but if you studied history at all then its no secret.

300 is a mythical embellishment of ancient history that paints the screen red and even squeezes in some crazy critters.

300 weaves a bit of political intrigue between the battle sequences, most of it involving the corrupt Theron (Dominic West) and the deformed traitor Ephialtes (Andrew Tiernan).

The bulk of the movie is devoted to highly stylized combat. Spears and swords tear into flesh. Persian elephants go flying off cliffs. Xerxes sends wave after wave of fighters against the Spartans, only to see them punctured and hacked to bits.

It oozes testosterone, brought to life in vivid layers of virtual scenery. It's obvious that the backdrops aren't real, but they're impressively integrated into the live action. Some scenes look as if they've been dipped in bronze; others have a silvery hue that conjures a mood somewhere between color and black and white.

300 is an adult comic book come to life in bloody glory, much like Sin City.

"ZODIAC"
GRADE: ***

For almost 20 years the Zodiac Killer terrorized the San Francisco Bay Area with a series of apparently random murders.

Director David Fincher's re-creation of the notorious and still officially unsolved case is a methodical depiction of the killer's crimes and the authorities' response. This may just be the ultimate police movie, showing onscreen the digging that goes into an investigation, ultimately unleashing a river of factual information for the viewer to sift through.

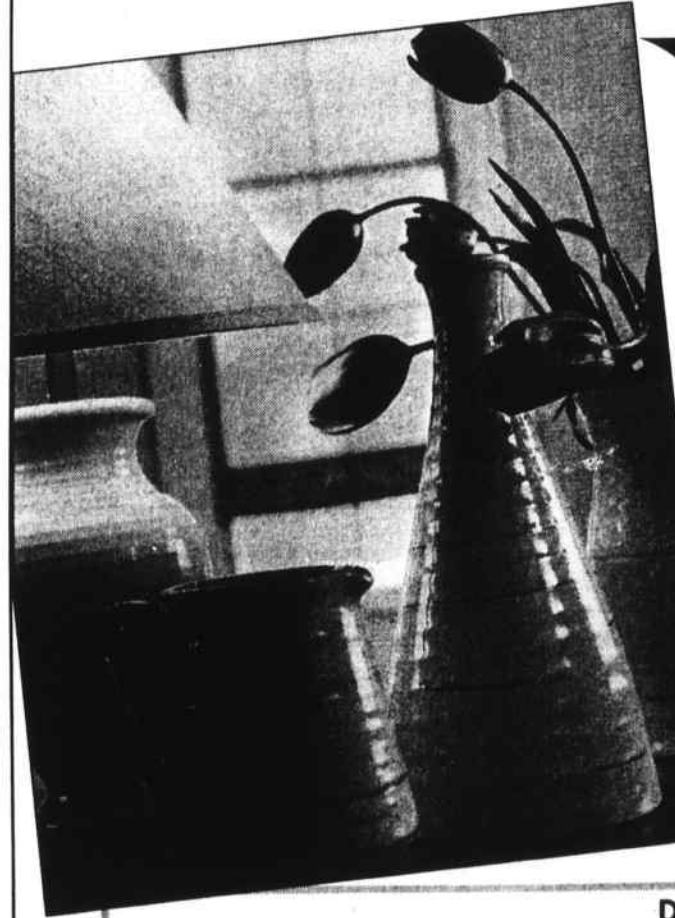

"Zodiac" has a few moments of suspense but is less concerned with being this type of thriller film than it is in following a hugely complicated case over many, many years.

Chirping

guidelines set by any state agencies, including the Commission for the Blind.

Magoon noted that if further signals are purchased for the crossing at North Avenue and Albion Street they might consider getting signals that make a louder sound.

A federally funded study has been put into place by a Berlin, Massachusetts organization, Accessible Design for the Blind (www.acb.org/pedestrian/signals), which states: "Federal and model code accessibility standards in the U.S. do not yet include scoping or technical provisions for APS or other means of communicating visible signal information to pedestrians who have vision impairments. Regulators have been reluctant to standardize on any current device or system until more research and development is done on applications of emerging intelligent transportation systems and related communications technologies.

"Although audible crossing indicators have been available for over 25 years, they have not been well received by traffic planners in the United States. This is probably attributable to two factors: one is noise pollution and consequent community opposition; the other is disagreement among blind people on the need for and effectiveness of audible pedestrian signals.

"However, changes in traffic control and signaling design and practice today have greatly disadvantaged blind pedestrians who wish to travel independently. The Department of Justice has recognized that APS may be necessary at some locations in order to provide access for a pedestrian who is blind to the "program" of pedestrian circulation provided by a jurisdiction."

The organization's report also states: "A number of technologies exist which provide WALK and DON'T WALK information. These APS provide information that is audible, vibrotactile, or both."

The report continues, "All products produce a sound, vibration, or both, during the walk interval. Beyond this, there is great variation in the functional characteristics of different products, with some providing information throughout the signal cycle. A few devices have audio output that varies, by message or repeat frequency, as the pedestrian cycle changes from WALK to DON'T START to DON'T WALK.

"Currently available products are of three design types, categorized by the location from which the audible or vibrotactile cue is given:

- Speakers mounted in, on or near the visible ped-head;
- Transmitters mounted in or on ped-heads, and
- Sound generator and vibrating hardware which are integrated into the push button at or near the curb.

Like visible pedestrian signals, devices that use audible speakers and/or vibrating hardware will provide cues at both ends of a crossing when the pedestrian interval is actuated. Transmitter/receiver systems respond to individual use, and so will "read" only the transmitter that is being scanned.

As always, when driving stay aware of your surroundings. Be especially aware of a growing number of people that may be using white canes to denote they are visually impaired.

lifestyle retail center plans for the site and will remain involved in the future development of the site.

"Pearson still owns it," said Tye. "It's not going to be developed as a lifestyle center. As far as that proposal is concerned, it's dead."

"According to a published company profile, 'National Development is an interdisciplinary real estate company that provides development, construction, asset management and investment acquisition services. The Newton, Massachusetts-based firm is ranked as one of the largest development companies in Massachusetts. National has a diverse product base with major projects in the office, industrial, retail, senior housing, multifamily, hotel and institutional sectors. Since 1983, National Development has developed over twelve million square feet in 40 communities throughout the region. In addition, the firm manages over six million square feet of assets.'

"We were asked to come in both by Pearson and by Weiner, and use our skills to see if we can make something positive happen here," said Tye. "Sometimes it makes sense to change a face, and wipe the slate clean and start over. We come with the proverbial blank piece of paper. We haven't got anything we are proposing, and no timetable that we are operating on..."

'Civil' action in Burlington

"On a roll call vote of 52-25, Town Meeting decided to remove the position of fire chief and police chief from the Civil Service system," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The decision does not affect the two current chiefs."

"The article was brought forward by the Board of Selectmen on a 4-1 vote."

"This is a matter of the selectmen looking at our managers and treating them as managers," stated Selectmen Chairman Gary Gianino, opening a lengthy debate on the issue.

"Gianino said the action is not a reflection on the present chiefs."

"Precinct 3 Rep. Sean Connors noted that the fire chief goes to every fire and asked how he is a manager."

"We would like to treat him as any other manager," said Gianino.

"Town Administrator Robert Mercier said taking the positions out of Civil Service increases the pool of candidates when the position opens up. He noted that under Civil Service, the town is required to hire one of the top three from the chief's exam."

"With the job out of Civil Service, there are 'many, many people who could conceivably be chief' while the Civil Service procedure 'narrows the pool.'"

"The town of Burlington deserves us looking at the best possible person," continued Mercier.

"Precinct 3 Rep. Louis Rubino spoke in support of the proposal."

"I really think this is a great idea," he stated. "This is a good business decision. This is a good management decision."

"Precinct 3 Rep. Stephen

Marchese noted that the positions of school superintendent and assistant town administrator were recently filled with internal candidates."

"Why is it you guys are changing your direction?" he said to the selectmen..."

Contributions in the thousands for Stoneham

"The Massachusetts Association of School Committees, Superintendent of Stoneham Public Schools, Joseph J. Connolly and Kristin Russo, School Committee Chairperson, recently nominated and awarded StonehamBank as the annual 'Outstanding School Partner Award' recipient," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"This award is given by the Massachusetts Association of School Committees, Inc. (MASC) as part of their Partners, Friends, and Leaders Recognition Program. The 'Outstanding School Partner Award' recognizes a corporate or non-profit entity who, through their contribution have demonstrated support for public education."

"Superintendent Connolly wrote, 'For many years, StonehamBank has continually dedicated much employee volunteer time and financial resources to the betterment of Stoneham Public Schools. Each year they willingly step forward to support our six public schools in many ways."

"In recent years, we have faced serious financial difficulties due to cutbacks in Chapter 70 funding; StonehamBank has stepped forward and supported our needs. Under the leadership of StonehamBank President Janice T. Houghton, the bank has dedicated employee volunteer time and financial resources to the betterment of the Stoneham Public Schools. Including the Read-A-Loud Program, the Homework Club, Mentoring, along with donations to support the Middle School Math Team, the Central School PTO activities, and the Scholarship Fund contributions by StonehamBank, total in the thousands of dollars each year have set the standard for other businesses within the community to follow."

"StonehamBank has truly become the 'role model' for how local businesses can and should support their local schools...."

Sampler Home in Stoneham

This week's sampler welcomes you to a wonderful 4 bedroom Ranch style home ranch on a cul de sac in the desirable Robin Hood School location. This home is completely remodeled from end to end including a new roof, heating system with central air conditioning and a master bedroom suite that will make you fall in love with this home. You'll sense the pride of ownership throughout.

Once inside, you are in the living room which is a nice setting to entertain guests or enjoy a quiet moment. The living room is especially warm and inviting when you enjoy the glow of the fireplace.

The kitchen has been beautifully tiled and possesses an abundance of quality counter space and natural maple cabinets. This kitchen has been enlarged to offer lots of functionality and enjoyment that often comes with holidays and social events.

Off the kitchen is the sunny and warm family room with views of the gardens, deck and pool. The family room has sliding doors that lead to a spacious deck, patio and pool area for hours of outdoor enjoyment.

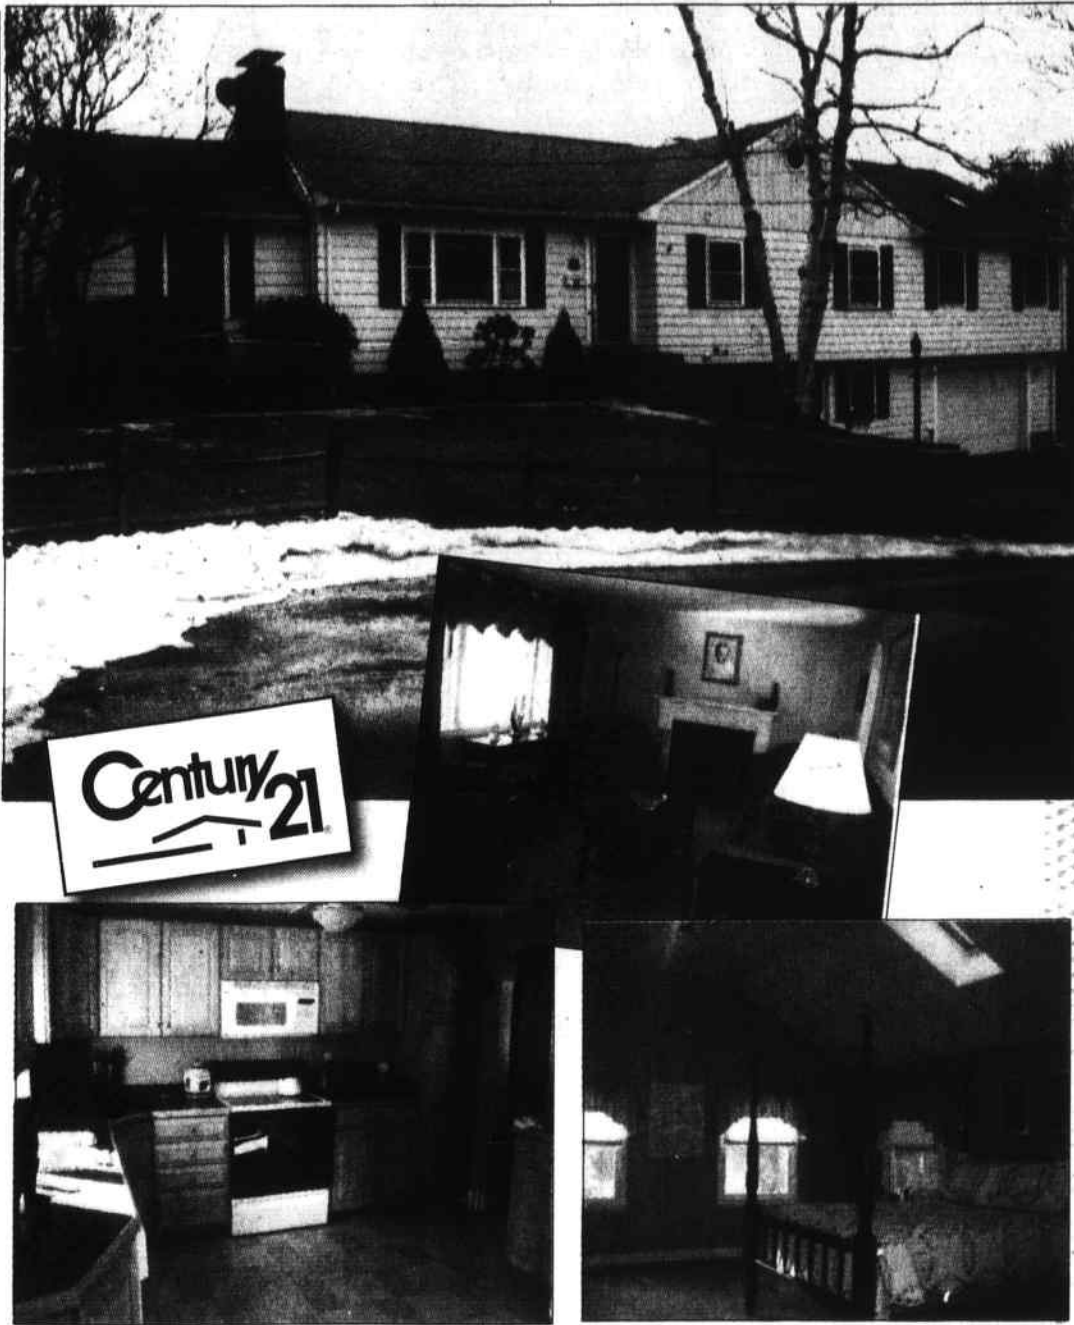

As you navigate the hallway you come to three bedrooms and a full bathroom. These bedrooms are all very nicely sized and have beautiful hardwood.

At the end of the end of the hallway is the show piece of this home. The master bedroom suite is spacious to say the least and has a vaulted ceiling with a beautiful ceiling fan, large walk-in closet and a large master bath. The master bath is adorned with impressive tile work, 4 foot shower with a seat and a two person Jacuzzi tub!

The lower level of this home offers a brand new playroom which has been professionally done with an Owens Corning Basement System. The lower level features a nice work shop. Attached to the work shop is an oversized garage that allows for ample storage while still being able to move around freely and not damage the car.

The yard is has a lot of attention paid to it and possesses an abundance of flowering shrubs and trees, including azaleas, rhododendrons and weeping cherry. The yard provides something for all. Enjoy sledding, throwing a ball or having a pool party and cookout.
